EMERGENCY HUB GRAND OPENING ON JUNE 16

by Brad Holden

The Clearview Emergency Hub and Fire Administration Centre, the first building in Simcoe County to combine local fire service, County paramedics and a satellite office of the Ontario Provincial Police, will have its official grand opening on Saturday, June 16.

That was announced by Mayor Ken Ferguson at Monday's Council meeting after Council had a look at a video about the facility that's been produced by the County's public relations department. The video will be part of an application for the Peter J. Marshall Award for Innovative Projects, which is handed out annually by the Association of Municipalities of Ontario.

The Hub has been up and operating since late winter.

Budget Passed

After voting unanimously for a 3.91 per cent net tax increase at its last meeting, Council made things official Monday night by officially adopting the 2012 budget and setting this year's tax rates.

Procedural Bylaw Passed

Council also gave the nod to its procedural bylaw, which has been in the works since this term began at the start of 2011. Township Clerk Bob Campbell thanked his assistant, Brenda Falls, for her work on the document.

Housing Presentation

Council was visited by Gail Michalenko of the Georgian Triangle Housing Centre, who presented that organization's recent housing study. Deputy Mayor Alicia Savage said the findings would be valuable as the Township works on its new Official Plan.

Sarah Hallett, the new president of the Creemore Farmers' Market, has some changes in store for this year's edition.

It's Market Time!

by Brad Holden

After a long winter, the Creemore Farmers' Market will return this Saturday, May 19, and all will once again be right with the world.

That may be a slight exaggeration, we suppose, but it does kind of feel that way during that first stroll into the market on a sunny opening day. And this year, the 15-year-old institution is aiming to be bigger and better than ever, under the guidance of new president Sarah Hallett.

Hallett is replacing Jean Brownfield, who has led the market from the very beginning (along with co-founder Sandra Lackie, who left the board a few years ago to start the 100 Mile Store), and she's a little concerned about following in such large footsteps.

"Jean did everything; I really don't know how she managed," said Hallett this week. "We're really going to miss her."

Not one to pass up a challenge, Hallett has been working hard over the off-season, and market-goers will notice a few changes on Saturday morning.

(See "Market" on page 12)

The final group of students and staff at Duntroon Central Public School posed for this recent picture.

A great community party to say goodbye to Duntroon School

by Brad Holden
 If there's one thing that the students, staff and parents of Duntroon Central Public School know in this final year before the school is closed is that they will be going out in style.
 A "Grand Finale Celebration" for the school is set to take place on Saturday, May 26, and the Duntroon community has been hard at work making sure the day is a memorable one.
 Festivities will get underway at 1 pm, when guests will be greeted by a performance by the Stayner Collegiate Institute Concert Band. Children's programming will take place throughout the day.

The school will be open for tours all afternoon, and several classrooms will be decked out with memorabilia from the various decades the school has been in existence.
 At 2 pm those in attendance will be piped into the school's gymnasium by the Beinn Gorm Highlanders and an official program will begin. After speeches by the various dignitaries present, the focus will move back outside for what's sure to be the highlight of the day.
 Students at the school have been hard at work writing messages and inserting them into balloons, which will be set free with the help of one graduate for each decade and one current student from each grade. The current students will all be descendants of other graduates of the school.

 At 3 pm, entertainment will begin, with several talented current and former students taking the stage.
 A light barbecue dinner will be served at 4 pm, and an hour after that several teams representing different decades will battle for supremacy on the baseball diamond.
 Anyone and everyone who's had anything to do with Duntroon Central Public School over the years is invited to what's sure to be a bittersweet community occasion.

THE WAY WE WERE

Heading northwest from Beeton, the first stop on the Hamilton and North Western Railway “Hog Special” was at Thompsonville, where this humble station was found.

The next stop on the line after Thompsonville was Alliston, a prosperous hub for the local agricultural community. We’ll continue with Peter Coates’ station-by-station tour of the “Hog Special” next week. Once we get to Avening and beyond, he promises to have some good stories!

Creemore Big Heart Seniors

There were 51 of us gathered for cards today, and Bob Veale thanked Norma Johnston for bringing in several acid-free tomato seedlings for giveaway. These are small, pear-shaped, yellow-when-ripe tomatoes that are very tasty, and quite nice in a salad.

Needless to say, they were scooped up pretty quickly. He also thanked Sheila Fenton, who brought in toffee candies to be added to the stash of goodies presided over by Barb Pilon. Thanks also to Chris Taylor for the items to be added to our "goody box" for our industrious Nancy and her crew.

We welcomed newcomer Edith Atkinson, and then we had a "Happy Birthday to You" for Nadine Chestnut, who is the age of majority, plus a bit. She was disappointed when there was no kiss to follow, so Bob complied. Ah, it's a tough job being president, right, Bob? Everyone else has noticed that these guys like their job as president. I wonder why?

Irma Flack then read out a cute article brought in by "candy gal" Barb who insists that she can't "read" a joke. But she doesn't have to – she can ad-lib with the best of them when telling a joke. Her article that Irma read was called "Things I owe my mother for," such as

SENIORS

Sylvia
GALE

"If I've told you once, I've told you a million times NOT to exaggerate!" etc, etc.

The 50/50 draws went to Bob Veale, Eileen Nash, Wilma Zeggil, Ray Broad, Marcia Cameron, Ray Leighton, Wayne Brownridge and Tom Sharpe.

Moon shots were played by Jim Rigney (2), Effie Taylor, Evelyn Warden, Roy Veinot (2), Norma Johnston, Jim Ferguson, Pat Broad and Marcia Cameron. Marcia won the travelling prize, and Jim Rigney scooped the Sidewinders loot.

High scorers were Jean Lune 292, Janice Stephens 287, Sheila Fenton 285 and Ray Leighton 279. Low was Lois Walker with 80.

Again our thanks to Dave Smith for gathering up the "stuff" we forget to take home, and for keeping it safe for us for the next week. P.S. Pat Broad was very pleased to get her insulated mug back!

I was remiss in not having a Happy Mother's Day greeting to all mothers on behalf of the Seniors in last week's Echo. And, after I discovered the touching note to me from the Wicked Westerners (for which I thank my kids and grandkids), I really felt bad about being forgetful.

It sure was nice to read that the Curiosity House Bookstore will still be a viable business in Creemore. It is a great store that has always ordered in anything that they do not have in stock, which is a wonderful service. They also carry a great number of local writers' books, as well as books pertaining to this area. So a big welcome to Ralph Hicks, and we hope this is the start of a pleasurable enterprise for you.

At the Mother's Day Legion Breakfast on Sunday, we enjoyed a lovely meal with daughter Carol (Louie) and her friend Ron. Then I noticed that there was one table that lots of good looking gals just naturally gravitated towards. Looking closer, I noticed that the table where Linda Cockton, Liz Smith, Katherine Blohm, etc, etc, all stopped to chat was the one where Creemore's most eligible bachelor was sitting. Ken, Ken, Ken! You are just going to have to tone down that dynamite personality – as well as that bewitching smile! Just remember, one woman is a handful, two women are an overindulgence, and three women are a disaster waiting to happen!

I have been very interested in the pictures and information on the Hog Special train that ran into Creemore. This train ran quite near the Jack Lennox house that was across the road to the east of us, and set way back in from the road that ran from Creemore to Avening. Being that the tracks were quite near the house, the conductor always blew the whistle going by, so we were all quite aware of it. Then in school we had to memorize all the railroad stations from Collingwood to Beeton – and of course, they had to be spelled right. Nobody ever thought there would be a day coming where the train did not arrive, not only once, but twice a day. But the day the passenger train made its last run to Creemore was on October 29, 1955 – the day my sister Pat married Don Matthews. I remember riding up in the hills on our farm on horseback, and taking a far distant picture of the last train to Creemore on my Kodak box camera. I imagine that picture is still around, but the distance reduced the size of everything to really teeny-tiny. I must mention to Pat that I have heard of faces that would stop a clock, or even a train, but a wedding that could manage that? Never heard of one!

WATER FROM ABOVE Locally run international development organization Tin Roof Global is all about water, both home and abroad. On Saturday, May 19 and for two Saturdays after that, Tin Roof executive director John Millar will be at the Creemore Farmers' Market, selling rain barrels and chatting to people about the importance of conserving water. With the help of a grant from Mountain Equipment Co-op, Millar has rigged a tent with a perpetually flowing water capture system, which is sure to generate some conversation, as well as interest from the younger set. The rain barrels come in two different varieties, and range in price from $50 to $95, with installation available for an extra $25 (utilizing Rent-a-Youth). Proceeds from the sales will go towards Tin Roof's efforts to install water-capture systems on Ugandan schoolhouses, as well as its water stewardship programs here in Canada.

"Margaritas in the Valley" to offer a taste of the beach life

by Brad Holden

Brian Neale spends six months of the year entertaining folks during happy hour in the British Virgin Islands, and the other six months recreating that same Caribbean vibe in venues around North America. He's the real deal, every bit as much of a beach troubadour as the man he emulates, Jimmy Buffett.

"Most of the songs I sing either have something to do with boats, with some kind of drinking, or with laying in the sun," says Neale. "You can't really go wrong with that."

On Saturday, June 2, for the second year in a row, Neale will bring his band, Northern Harbour, to the Creemore Arena for a beach party bonanza. Entitled "Margaritas in the Valley," the event is being organized by the Creemore Nitetis Lodge #444, with proceeds going to Heart & Stroke Foundation of Ontario.

A longtime musician and fan of Jimmy Buffett, Neale didn't start performing covers of his hero's music until he won a contest to perform a song onstage with Buffett at a Molson Amphitheatre concert in the late 1990s. The moment was captured on video and can be seen on the Northern Harbour website (www.northernharbour.com). It's clear from the footage that the two men share a common attitude, and not long after the concert Neale was contacted by one of the 18,000 "parrotheads" in the audience, who suggested he should form a Buffett tribute band.

Fast forward 15 years and Northern Harbour has perfected the Hawaiian shirt and barefoot look, travelling all over Ontario and farther afield to give audiences a taste of the good life. They play a lot of Buffett songs, and throw in some Van Morrison, Bruce Springsteen, Neil Diamond and others as well.

"Come to our shows and you'll hear a bit of country, a bit of rock'n'roll, a bit of salsa... the main thing is that it's all fun," says Neale.

Northern Harbour's biggest gig is in Midland, where their annual "Party on the Dock" draws thousands and has raised more than $700,000 for various causes in that community over the past seven years.

It's that kind of model that the local Masons would like to imitate, and you can expect the Creemore Arena to be decked out in full Caribbean style, complete with palm trees, tiki huts and a margarita bar. Expect to dance and go home with a smile on your face.

Tickets for "Margaritas in the Valley" are $20, available at Creemore Foodland.

Last Saturday's Peak to Peak Escarpment Challenge saw nearly 300 people hiking distances of 8, 12, 20 or 26 kilometres on the nearby Bruce Trail. Host organization the Clearview Community Coalition has not released the amount raised to help in their fight against quarrying on the escarpment, but they did state that over 1,000 people had pledged money to Saturday's hikers.

Viva Italia!!

Stephen and I just celebrated our 35th wedding anniversary. In honour of the occasion, and because we were told “use them or lose them” by Air Canada, we pulled together every Aeroplan mile and all the other reward program points we had accumulated over a number of years and managed to book a trip to Italy. It took three different flights to get there and three flights back, but we did it!

We landed in Rome and then headed down to the Amalfi Coast for a few days. After that, we travelled to Venice by way of Florence (Stephen had been there before but I had it on my personal bucket list), followed by a slow drive back to Rome via San Marino and Orvieto. Besides spending some quality time together, it was a great opportunity to sample the fantastic local Mediterranean cuisine. We couldn’t get enough of all the fresh made pasta dishes, grilled local fish and wood oven pizza. The hotel we stayed in outside of Sorrento was a lovely place, owned by the Francischielli family. Not only did we have a beautiful view of the Isle of Capri from our room, but four nights out of five we ate in their dining room where Nonna Francischielli held court every night, overseeing all the vegetables and salads (fresh from her garden). It was a very special trip and we enjoyed it immensely.

CREEMORE DISH

No rest for the wicked when we got back though! I already had a two-day Gourmet Getaway weekend booked for six, and managed to get through it even though we both picked up some strange bug on the plane(s) coming back home. Italy already seems a distant memory, but the brief respite has recharged my culinary batteries, that’s for sure!

One of the most common dishes you will see in Italy is Pasta Bolognese – better known as your local spaghetti with meat sauce. However, a Bolognese sauce in Italy is not quite as heavy and thick as you might find here. There is meat in it but not a lot, and a few simple ingredients simmering on the stove for a number of hours produces a rich sauce that clings nicely to the pasta. I learned that to make it true Bolognese style, tagliatelle pasta should be used – long, flat egg noodles known as “little ribbons.” You can buy them here and you will generally see them twirled into little nests in the package.

This week I’m going to pass on my current version of Bolognese sauce. I say “current” because this sauce is a work in progress and I am always fine-tuning it. However, the basics are all there and I hope you enjoy making it as much as I do!

Feedback is great and I would love to hear from you. Just email me at elaine@avalonclearview.com.

Pasta Bolognese

Serves 6

- 1/3 pound sweet pancetta (or bacon)
- 2 tablespoons extra virgin olive oil (EVOO)
- 1 large cooking onion, diced
- 2 cloves of garlic, minced
- 1/2 pound lean ground beef
- 1/2 pound ground pork
- 4 ounces red wine
- 1 teaspoon chopped fresh rosemary leaves (or 1/2 teaspoon dry)
- 1 teaspoon dried oregano
- 1- 28 ounce can whole Italian tomatoes (preferably San Marzano if you can find them)
- 15.5 ounce can tomato paste
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon fresh ground black pepper

Sweet pancetta is Italian bacon – you can get it at the deli counter. Ask for a small chunk, and dice it. Using a large saucepan or Dutch oven, heat pan to medium high, add EVOO and pancetta. Fry for a few minutes until pancetta is lightly browned. Add onion and garlic, sautéing until soft and very lightly browned. Add ground beef and pork to pan. Sauté until browned, then add the red wine and stir. Reduce pan liquids slightly, then add the rosemary, oregano, tomatoes, tomato paste, salt and pepper. Bring mixture to a boil, then move to the back of your stove and leave on simmer for at least one hour, preferably longer for flavours to develop.

When sauce is ready, cook your favourite pasta as package directs. Top cooked pasta with Bolognese sauce, some freshly grated parmesan cheese and dig right in!

Lots happening as Duntroon readies for school finale

Duntroon is seeing some action these days: Canadian Army soldiers at the Hall and new trees at the Park, hikers going Peak-to-Peak, and balloons to fill the air at the upcoming Grand Finale at the School.

A group of Coyotes (light armoured vehicles) and the scout soldiers who use them have been lying low at the Nottawasaga Community Hall off and on for the past week, parking out, sleeping there and “using the facilities.” Soldiers from CFB Petawawa have been engaged in a large training exercise involving the “taking” of Meaford, thus explaining the heavy military presence you may have noticed on many of the area roads. While passing a Coyote hiding in a neighbour’s laneway was a bit disconcerting, the soldiers we saw and spoke with were refreshingly friendly and polite, presenting a positive image of our Canadian military.

Next door to the Hall at Islay Park, family and friends have planted a total of 42 trees in honour of the late Doug and Vira Campbell, my husband Jim’s parents. After Vira’s passing in February, a number of family and friends contributed to a memorial tree fund, to which Jim and his brothers Scott and Graham added, to make the tree planting in honour of both their parents. Ian Payne of Enviroescape and Not So Hollow Farm helped Jim select a variety of young native trees for the Park, and the planting took place last Saturday morning, before Vira’s interment. Dave Cudworth, our favourite dry stonewaller and trained carver, made time in his busy schedule to carve a stone memorial, and Grant Sampson, a longtime family friend and one of Vira’s “favourites,” donated and moved the stone to its new location. The Park now looks livelier, and I’m sure Vira and Doug would be pleased – they both loved the beauty of trees.

ROCKSIDE REPORT

Suzanne

Last Saturday as well, the highlands here were full of people – apparently over 300 – hiking in the Peak-to-Peak Escarpment Challenge. This event, organized by the Clearview Community Coalition, was a major fundraiser for the organization, which has mounted a legal challenge to the Walker quarry application.

All Duntroon School attendees, past and present, are invited to come Saturday, May 26, as the School community gets together for a Grand Finale to celebrate Duntroon Central Public School’s great spirit. With the school closing its doors forever at the end of June, the School Council and friends wanted to celebrate all its positive memories, and decided a party was in order. The Grand Finale will run from 1 to 6 pm at the school, with each classroom showcasing a different decade’s memorabilia, and a program featuring music, speakers, children’s entertainment, cake and a light dinner, rounding off with a baseball tournament pitting decade against decade. The program takes its cue from the opening ceremony back in 1964, and the 25th anniversary party in 1989. Members of the Beinn Gorm Highlanders will announce the start of official presentations at 2 pm, with former students Bev Kennedy (piano) and Brooke Girdwood (vocals) leading O’Canada. After the speakers there will be a mass lift-off of balloons representing all Duntroon students (a newspaper article was discovered that noted they also had balloons for the 25th anniversary!), followed by cake cutting, and shortly after, a light dinner. The SCI Band, former student JC Sifton and his band, and others will be playing, and children’s activities will include balloons from Roxann, face painting and tattoos, a drawing table, Elephant Thoughts, and an interactive drumming workshop led by Groupsoume. All previous and current Duntroon students are welcome, and registration is encouraged by either contacting the school at 705-445-0258 or going online to <http://duntrooncentral.edublogs.org/commemorating-duntroon-may-26-info>.

Market will focus on vendors

First off is the sheer number of vendors. While last year saw about 25 booths on average, Hallett has signed up 32, the maximum capacity, and has had to turn down an extra seven.

Among the new full-time vendors are three new vegetable producers, one certified organic and the other two operating in an organic manner; a meat and cheese operation; a jam-maker; a tea company; and a savoury baker.

Showing up on a part-time basis for the first time this year will be a gardener, a pie-maker, a furniture-maker, an “upcycled” clothing booth and a maker of cold-pressed oils.

In an effort to make the vendors more visible, they will all be wearing green aprons branded with the Creemore

Farmers’ Market logo.

The marquee event this year will also work towards developing relationships between vendors and market-goers. Taking place on July 21, the event will be entitled “Sample the Market.” You might want to skip breakfast that day, as each booth will be offering samples of their wares.

“The plan is to encourage people to talk to the stall-holders,” said Hallett. “The more people know each other, the more people see the market as a community place.”

In general, the event schedule will be lighter this year, with more emphasis on the vendors and their goods. Curiosity House will still be partnering with the market, hosting book signings there, and the area around the fountain will still be designated for community organizations (there are seven signed up for this Saturday, including the Creemore BIA, which will have a booth there all summer, acting as a tourist information stop for those wishing to explore the village).

As is tradition, market-goers will still have the opportunity to take home a free plant on opening day, but this year, that honour will go to the first three customers at each booth.

For more information about the market, or to find out what fresh goods are available from its vendors on a week-to-week basis, people can now go to the new Farmers’ Market website, developed by Shane Durnford and found at www.creemorefarmersmarket.ca.

“All in all, it’s going to be a busy year, and hopefully we’ll see everyone out at the market,” said Hallett, who of course will also be offering her trademark delectable baked goods at her Roseberry Farm booth. Drop in and say hi, she’d love to have a chat with you.

Braves News

by Fred Mills

Creemore entertained Barrie last Saturday with a twilight game at Gowan Park. Matt Baldry started on the hill but didn’t last long. Brad Grieveson came on in relief for the win, shutting Barrie down with only one run on three hits. Creemore’s bats finally woke from their winter hibernation, notching six hits with Grieveson having a pair. Curt Barnett, Rob Perkins, Robert Kinghan all had singles. Bryan Post hit a two-run homer and his first dinger of the season. Creemore won 6-4.

The Braves then welcomed Angus to the village on Tuesday evening. Matt Baldry returned to the mound for the start and picked up the win, allowing five hits while whiffing seven batters. The Braves managed five hits and they went to Bryan Post, Jeremy Mills, Glenn Patterson, Ryan Bartley and Brad Grieveson. Creemore came back, scoring three runs in the bottom of the sixth inning to win 3-1.

The Braves Junior team hosted the New Lowell Knights Junior team for their home opener on Sunday. Jesse Metheral took the ball and pitched 2.1 innings allowing five runs on one hit and two strikeouts. Creemore found their bats with Kurt Roy leading the way pounding out two homeruns and Jesse Gubicza adding another round tripper. The Braves entertained the large crowd with a 12-8 victory.

IN MEMORIAM

Donald Breedon Jan 25 1933 – May 21, 2011

We took a chance on love back
When nobody could have said
Just what the fates might bring us
In years that lay ahead.
We took a chance because we Thought that we could find a way
To help and share and see each other
Through from day to day.
We thought that just as long as
We could always be together,
A bit of sun would smile on us
In fair or stormy weather.
We thought our love was strong
Enough to make our future bright,
So we took a chance on it,
and then we found out we were right.
Greatly missed & lovingly remembered always by wife Anne, children, grandchildren and great grandchildren

THANK YOU

Thanks to the ladies of the Friendship Club for the surprise birthday party they gave me. Also thanks for the cards I have received to celebrate my 75th birthday.
