ALL TOGETHER NOW The new Emergency Hub, just east of Stayner, was officially opened with the cutting of the hose last Saturday. Deputy Chief of Paramedics Jeff McWilliam, Fire Chief Bob McKean and Kevin Hunter, Detachment Commander for Huronia West OPP were all there to represent their services which are now all housed in one joint facility within Clearview Township.

WALKER GETS GO AHEAD FOR DUNTROON QUARRY

After 139 days of hearings over the past 13 months the Consolidated Hearings Board reached a two-to-one decision to allow Walker Aggregates to expand operations at their Duntroon location.

The Board released its written decision in a 263-page document and requires modifications to Walker's originally proposed operations. Reduced shipping hours and larger buffers to protect the American Hart's Tongue Fern and Rob Roy Wetland must be adhered to.

Walker is pleased with the approval saying it very good news for the employees and families while a release from Environmental Defence says the ruling sets a perilous course for increased development on Niagara Escarpment Protected Areas.

Expect an in-depth report in next week's Echo.

WHEN TO MOW

By Christopher Greer

With summer comes the sound of chirping birds and crickets, but also that of lawn mowers and hammers hitting nails, prompting a reminder of local by-laws regulating lawn maintenance and noise limits, which, according to Clearview By-Law Enforcement and Canine Control Officer Phil Snape, serve a twofold purpose: ensuring both the aesthetic appeal of the community and respectful practice between neighbours.

Property owners are required to keep grass and other herbage (be it dead or living) from exceeding 30 centimetres in height, in turn preventing the harbouring of mosquitoes and weeds, which oftentimes spread to

EVERYTHING INCLUDING FAMILY PET LOST IN FIRE

Clearview Fire Department was called to a house fire last Saturday on the Riverside Drive. The house, owned by the Hamilton Brothers and rented to tenants burnt to the ground while the residents were away. A dog was lost in the fire.

During this same time the department was also called to two other incidents, one of which involved a bailer fire.

The heat and hard work took its toll on the responding crews but no injuries have been reported by either firefighters or civilians.

TRUE PATRIOT GAME CANADA DAY

By Christopher Greer

The ice in the rinks may all have melted and the white-gloved hands of handler Phil Pritchard may already have relinquished the Stanley Cup, but on Sunday, July 1, the Old Mill House will celebrate our country's favourite pastime in honour of Canada Day, hosting a ball hockey tournament for the second straight year.

The tournament will take place on 8 separate playing surfaces, cordoned off by bales of hay along Edward Street.

Participants must be fifteen years of age or older. Ladies are encouraged to come out and take part, as well as individual players, who will be placed on a team by coordinator Shawn Hughson.

"It's a bunch of grown-ups acting like kids again," said Hughson. "It's going to be great fun. We'll have music and things for the kids to do as well."

Hughson also noted that, though encouraged, competition is to be friendly in nature at the tournament.

All money from the event will go toward Ray's Place, helping to fund the educational programs and support they offer local students.

Those interested are asked to register by Tuesday, June 26. Volunteers are still needed for setting up and tearing down the playing surfaces. For more information or contact Carol at the Old Mill House Pub or Shawn Hughson at 705-796-7536 to register.

CAROLYN MARK IN DUNEDIN

By Christopher Greer

With all of her acerbic wit in tow, Canadian indie virtuoso Carolyn Mark will soon roll into town alongside Joey Wright and Tuxedo, who will themselves contribute their brand of "lyrically dreamy and poetic" acoustic bluegrass to a musical collaboration that is sure to yield entertaining results.

"It makes me feel like a somebody that he wants to play with me," said Mark of Wright. "And there is the matter of his wife, Jenny Whiteley, who is singing harmonies on this tour. Her pitch is incredible. They inspire me to really play and sing."

Both Mark and Wright are no strangers to such collaboration, with Mark having worked in the past with both Canadian darling – and former member of The New Pornographers - Neko Case, and Wright having partnered with various members of Stars, the Montreal-based band who will soon play The New Farm.

Now, on June 30, they are coming to play the Dunedin Hall.

For Mark, who has been playing solo since 2000 and recently completed a new album, The Queen of Vancouver, there was a time – after the breaking up of her first band, "all-girl surfy twang popsters" The Vinaigrettes – when her musical future was in doubt.

"I thought I was only ever going to have one band, and when my first band broke up, I thought my musical career was over," said Mark. "But then I took up the guitar and got a weekly gig at The Hootenanny, which I still have. I find if you know where you're going people want to come along. Now I'll play with anyone."

It was only recently that Wright took the vocals on his own compositions, having acted as co-writer for years alongside Whiteley.

Critics and fans alike have been enthusiastic about the results.

"Christine Bougie is one of my musical heroes," said Mark of the Tuxedo guitarist. "So calm, so brave, so tasteful - not bad for a girl, eh?"

I WOULD RATHER SEE VEGETABLES

neighbouring properties.

There are also restrictions with regards to the noise made by property maintenance equipment, which are deemed likely to disturb if used within 100 feet of an occupied dwelling between 9 pm and 7 the next morning, except on Saturdays, when the restriction is extended to 9 am, and Sundays, when it is extended to noon.

Creemore resident Tim Talbot, who, as part of the Ontario Summer Company program, formerly operated local lawn care business Talbot Lawn Care, said that, though he appreciates the rights of residents to enjoy their property and understands that noisy equipment can hamper that enjoyment, by-laws are not the only things that restrict the use of lawn care equipment.

"Weather factors heavily," said Talbot. "You can't cut when it's raining, or very much when it's too hot. Businesses still need to survive, so you take advantage of conditions while you can."

There are similar laws restricting the erection, demolition, alteration or repair of a building and the use of construction or earth moving equipment within 500 feet of an occupied dwelling, with no noise to be made between 10 pm at night and 7 am on all days except for Sunday, when no noise is to be made between 9 at night and noon the next day.

Property owners must also ensure there exists no refuse or debris in unsafe condition on their property, unless it is held in an appropriate storage facility.

"It's not fair to someone who keeps their yard pristine if their neighbour's yard is in a state of disarray," said Snape.

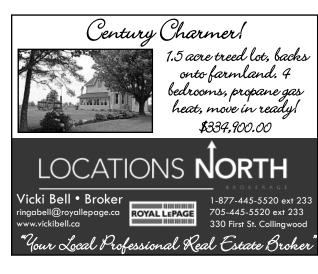

"We all want to live somewhere that is pleasant," said Creemore Horticultural Society President Charlotte Vorstermans, adding that keeping Creemore aesthetically appealing is important for local businesses, as doing so helps to attract tourists.

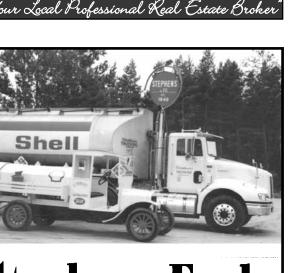

Vorstermans also noted, however, that lawns are not generally environmentally friendly, requiring a great deal of water to maintain, as well as encouraging the use of potentially hazardous chemicals and fertilizers that eventually make their way into local water systems.

"I would much rather see vegetable gardens than lawns," said Vorstermans.

There are by-laws regulating the watering of lawns, with even-numbered houses permitted to do so on evennumbered days and odd-numbered houses on odd-numbered days.

"If someone resists or neglects to bring the situation into compliance, then we would proceed with charges under the Provincial Offences Act," said Snape of the Township's attempts to enforce the by-laws, adding that the maximum penalty for infractions is $5000.

THE WAY WE WERE

Mrs. John Sidey saw the first train and the last

As submitted by Peter Coates

Christena Melville, a little girl of twelve years, stood on the elevation on her father's farm, lot 10 con. 5, Nottawasaga, on an October day in 1877 and watched the first train proceed over the newly-built right of way towards Collingwood. What must have been her thoughts as she gazed on the puffing, wood-burning locomotive pulling a string of cars? It was the beginning of a new era of transportation for the community. Everyone was jubilant. No more would the farmers have to haul their produce to Stayner market which had then enjoyed a train service for some 23 years. Christena was no doubt thrilled when she saw that first train which brought much prosperity to Creemore. This little girl grew up to womanhood and the passing of the train was a common occurrence. She married and became Mrs. John Sidev. She moved to her husband's farm two miles north. The railway passed through their farm and the passing of the train continued to be a regular event.

A few years ago her only son, Mr. Wheldale Sidey purchased a house and lot on the front of the old Melville farm. His mother, now a widow nearing her 91st milestone, lives with him. On Saturday Mrs. Sidey stood on the same elevation as she did 78 years ago and looked down in the valley less than a mile away and saw the last regular mixed train pass through Creemore. She saw the first and the last, and furthermore for the 78 years she lived adjacent to the railway line and may have seen, or at least heard, the train every day it went over the right of way.

It is not presumed that Mrs. Sidey has seen a train for the last time, but she has no doubt seen the last mixed train on the local line. Creemore, which is now to be the terminus of the stub line from Collingwood, will hereafter have a semi-weekly freight train and here's hoping this grand old lady may be spared to see the freights roll in and out of Creemore.

Always the place

On June 8th my sister-in-law, Patricia Rowbotham, arrived at our house after driving by herself from Winnipeg to visit with us for a couple of weeks.

She was telling us that she saw Mantracker's (Terry Grant) picture on a billboard somewhere in Northern Ontario... but she couldn't remember where she saw it. The next day, I was reading the Creemore Echo, and there was the picture of the billboard, and exactly where Patricia had seen it! What a coincidence! The Creemore Echo is "the" place to find out all the info you need! Right there at your finger tips!!!! LOL

Thanks for always being our place for information!!! Carol Rowbotham, Avening

Lawyers next to God?

Re: Third Line Resolution Dear Sara.

Thank you for your article on the 3rd Line Resolution. My only regret was that the full importance of Mr. John Ireland's words was not reported. Mr. Ireland addressed the Council and Mr. John Thomson stating that he recalls clearly that his father sold the deviation roads to the Township but the paperwork was lost in a fire. One Councillor jumped to his/her feet and said, "But you can't prove it!"

Secondly I believe that there was more than one legal opinion but, only one released. The report by Mr. Rust-D'Eye was 'worshipped as Gospel'.

I think back to Conrad Black who believed his lawyer was 'next to God' too.

I hope our leaders don't 'run for the hills' when we are faced by the 'godlike' lawyers for Highland Companies and the Airport Road quarry issue.

Yours truly,

Richard Byford, Mulmur

Creemore Big Heart Seniors

There were 63 out for cards today, and Bob Veale introduced newcomer Sharon Overall, and he welcomed back Judith and Paul Turner, who had been away for the winter. We then tried to nail down the number of people that would be coming to our catered lunch at St. John's United Church, and it seems that 65 will be near the mark.

After a cute joke by Barb Pilon, the 50/50 draws went to Lucy Young, Pat Broad, Warren Gale, Pat Winger, Jim Rigney, Mercedes Veinot, Marion Kelly and Bert Douglas.

Moon shots were played by Audrey Tidd, Russ Miller, Brian McGill, Karl Seifert, Terry Watt, Doreen Murray, Wilma Zeggil, Eileen Nash and Peter Gubbels, who won the travelling prize. There was no "Sidewinder" winner this week.

High scorers were Jim Ferguson 314, Ray Leighton 292, Gayle Gordon 277 and Marg Ferguson 271. Low was Jim Rigney with 4.

Our sympathy goes out to the Lockwood family on the passing of Dora (Brooks) Lockwood recently. She was the mother of Bob and Harold Lockwood – both nice guys that came to high school in Creemore. Dora was also a sister to Helen (Brooks) Kenwell, which made her "Aunt Dora" to Isabelle (Kenwell) Gubbels.

We were at the hugely attended funeral for Bob Carruthers this past week. St. John's United Church had all the pews and the balcony, plus several "ad hoc" seats at the back of the church filled. Even back in the days when Sylvia Bishop and I used to attend church pretty regularly and there was a larger congregation than there is now, it took a pretty special occasion to fill the church and the balcony also. It would be nice to see that kind of crowd in the church on a regular basis.

Jayce Murphy, my sister Pat's grandgirl and my great niece, is a very well respected player in the Canadian Women's Rugby Team. Just recently, Jacey was notified that she had been voted one of the top four Canadian Women's Athletes. She was invited to the final round that would decide which one of the four would become the ultimate top female athlete for Canada. This took place in Calgary. The gal that took the top spot was a hockey player from Quebec (I haven't got her name at the moment) and our congratulations go out to her. It is a huge honour to be chosen as one of the top four female athletes for Canada, and the "serendipity" factor that I find amazing is that Jacey's Head Coach is a nephew of Marg Ferguson's – and Marg's husband Jim is a cousin of ours on Dad's side of the house, and – Marg and Jim are members of Seniors.

Our grandson and his wife, Cleve and Heather Kidd, live out near Sundre, Alberta, and their kids are true westerners. They have been on horseback since they were able to toddle (or before). Their neighbour, Jim Bowhay, had an older horse that was familiar with rodeos that Cleve's daughter, Cassie, (who will be five this summer) rides. This horse is "bullet proof" around flapping flags, crowds, noise, etc, etc, and doesn't get excited or upset. Arleta Bowhay, Jim's daughter, has been voted Miss Rodeo Canada for 2012, so she trailers her horse to rodeos both in Canada and the USA to perform. She rides around the arena, leading all other cowboys and cowgirls in such things as opening the show, being the flag bearer, etc, etc. Well, this year at the Sundre Rodeo, Arleta will be riding her horse, and our four year old great grandgirl will be riding near her, on a huge horse, carrying the flag. Oh well, I guess they have to start sometime!

I have just learned that Cassie and her little brother Corbin (3 years old) are entered in the "Wild" Sheep Ride, otherwise known as "mutton busting" where they try to ride a sheep that doesn't want them on there. On the plus side, the kids wear a helmet and – it's not too far to the ground, as those sheep can dump you off in a hurry unless you are a really good rider.

DISTINGUISHED ALUMNI Marie Miller of Creemore was recently presented with the 2012 Georgian College Board of Governors' Distinguished Alumni Award. Miller was recognized for her educational accomplishments with the institution. At the age of 40 she began academic upgrades at the Collingwood Campus going on to enroll at the Orillia Campus for Early Childhood Education. She was able to complete a B.A. in psychology through Georgian's University Partnership Centre. Once complete she enrolled in the Bachelor of Education program offered through York and Georgian. Miller is now teaching with the Simcoe County District School Board and is also instrumental in setting up the new family dairy. She has shared her inspirational story with many people as part of the fundraising efforts by the College to support the campaign for the John Di Poce South Georgian Bay Campus.

Our physicians and staff have the knowledge and experience. We want to give them better tools such as:

- CT Scanner with leading edge technology that shows the human body in amazing 3D, significantly reducing the time to diagnosis
- Digital X-ray that delivers clear, precise images in half the time with 80% less radiation
- Digital Mammography that delivers instant images

The New Age of Care Campaign is raising $10 million to fund this and more state of the art diagnostic equipment. The government does not supply the funding needed to make these purchases. We rely on you to help.

IF YOU LIVE, WORK OR PLAY IN SOUTH GEORGIAN BAY - PLEASE MAKE THIS HAPPEN.

Mini Horse Club

By Sarah White

The Georgian Triangle Miniature Horse 4-H Club's second meeting of the year got off to a fresh start, with the topics for the day being washing and clipping, judging and giving reasons, and drill team practice. The weather was fantastic, although perhaps a little too warm and sunny!

Our morning was spent bathing our "guinea pig" of the day—a sweet little gelding named "Dandy"—while in the afternoon we judged a class of miniature horse mares in preparation for the upcoming coaching night and County judging competition; club members also gave reasons for the way they judged the animals. During the afternoon we also practiced the drill team, going through the pattern with and without music, and with and without horses. The meeting ended with a short clipping session, after Dandy had dried sufficiently.

Because the RCMP Musical Ride will be coming to the area this summer, the club has also been discussing the possibility of attending one of those events to watch and learn a few things from the pros.

The club's next meeting will be held on June 29 at Swaffield Farms near Alliston, and the primary topic of the day will be jumping.

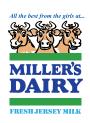

GIRLS ON THE RUN Girls from Nottawasaga and Creemore Public School were just some of 3000 students to participate in a team race last Saturday. The program, facilitated in Creemore by teachers Lisa Doner-Day, Jennifer Elliott and Kathy Whitley, is designed to recognize every girl as special, strong, and a winner.

Join us for some old-fashioned family fun.

FABULOUS BUFFFTI

Strawberry fields forever

The most interesting thing has happened on our property this year. We don't know if it has occurred as a result of the weird weather we've experienced over the past few months, or if it is just nature's whim. Wherever we have cut the grass (lawns and walking paths through the fields) tiny wild strawberries have popped up here, there and everywhere. Now we have seen these miniature berries in past years, but never in such abundance. They are bright red, juicy and sweet, and did I already say they were tiny? I'm sure it would take a whole field to make up one bucket, but we have been enjoying them as a little treat when we're out for a walk. If you do happen to drive by our west field and see one of us on our hands and knees peering intently at the ground, well, we are only picking wild strawberries.

Now that the official strawberry season is upon us there is no lack of strawberry teas and socials around the community. While you can buy strawberries year round (thanks to our global economy), the month of June always brings us the wonderful experience of biting into fresh and juicy locally grown berries. One of my earliest childhood memories takes me back to Rockcliffe Air Force Base in Ottawa, where the annual strawberry shortcake festival was a much anticipated event. Hundreds of families would come to the drill hall and parade square to sample the first strawberries of the season. It must have taken a few berry fields to feed us all!

This week's recipe is my take on a different type of "strawberry shortcake." I always find the combination of chocolate with any kind of berry irresistible so I hope you enjoy!

To make this posh looking dessert, I combined a delicious creamy cake which my mother-in-law originally served when I first met Stephen, with one of my favourite dessert fruit standbys Drunken Strawberries. Liqueur and orange juice are used to "macerate" the fruit, which simply means to soften and add flavour. These strawberries can be served with cake, ice cream, whipped cream, egg custard or just on their own.

Feedback is great and I would love to hear from you. Just email me at elaine@avalonclearview.com.

Until next time, eat well, live well....

Chocolate Fluff Cake with Drunken Strawberries

1 store bought or home made full size angel food cake

3 cups chilled whipped cream

1 1/2 cups sifted confectioners sugar

3/4 cup cocoa powder

1/4 teaspoon salt

2/3 cup slivered almonds, lightly toasted

1 quart fresh strawberries, hulled and sliced

2 tablespoons Grand Marnier or triple sec liqueur

Juice from 1/2 orange, freshly squeezed

Zest from 1/2 orange

To make cake: In a large chilled bowl, mix whipping cream, sugar, cocoa powder and salt together. Beat mixture until stiff, making sure cocoa powder is evenly distributed. Divide mixture in half. Add half of the slivered almonds into the first half of the whipped cream mixture and fold nuts in gently - this is your cake filling.

Cut the angel food cake carefully in half, then spread the cake filling mixture in the centre of the cake. Place the cake top back on. Frost the outside of the cake with the remaining half of the whipped cream mixture. Sprinkle the sides and top of the frosted cake with the remaining toasted almonds. Chill in the refrigerator for at least 4 hours until set.

To make Drunken Strawberries: Place strawberries in bowl. Pour liqueur, orange juice and orange zest over top then mix to incorporate. Leave sitting for 20 minutes.

Serve cake slices with Drunken Strawberries on the side.

Paint-in shows the significance of landscape

By Christopher Greer

Here today, gone tomorrow - an old adage to be sure, but an adept one when describing the possible future of the landscapes surrounding Hornings Mills, Melancthon, which for now offer inspiration to local artists (in addition to prime agricultural land), but may soon cease to exist, replaced by the proposed Highland Companies Mega-Ouarry.

On Saturday, June 30, from 11 am to 3 pm, a second annual Paint-In will be hosted by Artists Against the Mega-Quarry in Hornings Mills, gathering together a "loose collective" of 30 artists to capture the natural beauty of the area on canvas as a means of protest.

According to coordinator Sandi Wong, whereas last year's inaugural event occurred when the campaign was in its "relative infancy" and was focused on garnering support for the submission of an Environmental Bill of Rights, this year's event will accentuate both northern Dufferin culture and heritage, which, according to the Highland Companies' application, are virtually non-existent.

"There is general recognition of cultural significance in lower Dufferin, from Orangeville to Caledon," said Wong, "but we want to highlight the culture of the area being threatened by the Mega-Quarry," adding that event is a reason for concerned peoples – many more of whom are now from Toronto – to see for themselves how devastating it would be were the application to go through.

Appropriately, the Paint-In will take place at a private estate – known locally as "The Mansion" – built in 1910. There will also be guided tours of the area by North Dufferin Agricultural and Community Taskforce (NDACT) chair Carl Cosack, who would himself be personally affected by the Mega-Quarry were it approved, as he has a cow and calf operation in the area.

There will also be performances by local musician Ed Roman. Guests are invited to bring their own picnic, with beverages being made available

The proposed Mega-Quarry would, at 2,316 acres, be the largest ever constructed in Canada and the second largest in North America, and would be located on prime agricultural land, from which flow a number of significant river systems that serve a large portion of Ontario's population.

Profits from the paintings produced at the event – attendance of which is free (although donations are being accepted) – will support the campaign.

THANK YOU

Thank you to our family and friends for a wonderful celebration of our 50th Anniversary and all the phone calls and cards. It was a great day.

Bob and Betty Stephenson

The family of the late Keith Mills would like to thank everyone that attended the Memorial Service. Many thanks for the comforting phone calls and sympathy cards from people who were unable to attend. The response of love and respect was overwhelming. Special thanks to Paula from Carruthers and Davidson Funeral Home for her professional mannerism and expertise in everything she helped us with. Thanks to Rev. Wim Kreeft for giving a wonderful service. Rev. Wim touched on many of the highlights of our father's life. His choice of words reminded us what a great person he was. Thanks also to Centennial Women who prepared an amazing lunch. Many thanks also to Dr. Bill Ives who spoke re: memories of Lions Club days, Catherine Dunlop, Lloyd Preston playing music that our dad was so fond of. Shannon from Petal Pushers who created artistic flower arrangements.

Keith lived a long relatively healthy life and gave so much time to the community. Many thanks from his family. Connie, Clair, Janice & Lynn
