CAT SIGHTING IN WEBSTERVILLE

With so much perennial talk of cougar sightings in the area, needless to say we were surprised this week when Steve Brown paid us a visit to show us the above picture, taken by his niece, Molly Jayne, on Monday afternoon near the intersection of County Road 9 and Riverside Drive.

Sure enough, the photograph clearly shows a spotted cat running along the edge of the bush. Could it be true? Is it not a cougar but a leopard that's been lurking around the Mad River valley all these years?

Luckily, the Echo has its own naturalist in the office – namely Gary

Page of Page Graphics – who took a look at the photograph and immediately wondered if the animal was a Savannah cat, which is a domestic cross between a Siamese cat and a Serval, a small, wild cat found in southern Africa.

In our opinion, the photographs below which we pulled off the Internet – on the left, a Savannah cat and on the right, a leopard – confirm Gary's suspicion. The size and build of the cat and its striped tail seem to give it away.

But we'd love to confirm our theory. Would the owner of the animal care to get in touch? It might put our readers' minds at ease...

The Taste of Autumn

Mulmur resident Karen Scully captured judge's hearts with this beautiful entry during last Saturday's Creemore Apple Pie Contest. Rounding out the top six were Carrie Archibald (2nd), Stephen Loewg and Catherine Morissey (3rd), Lily White and Keri-Lynn Lammle (4th), Peggy Hutchinson (5th) and Gayle Millsap (6th). Tasked with the difficult job of judging the contest's 19 entries were (below, left to right) Clive Vanderburg, contest organizer Al Clarke, Sara Hershoff, John Golding, Marilyn Chenier (last year's winner) and Pat Prime.

We can do better than betting

There is a real possibility that local casino gambling will be coming to our area. Clearview Township, Wasaga Beach, Collingwood and Springwater Township will be hosting a public information meeting at 7 pm on Tuesday, October 16 at the Wasaga Beach RecPlex. The Ontario Lottery and Gaming Corporation (OLG) will be presenting information on their plans to locate a new gambling facility in one of the four municipalities. Your attendance is important, especially if you have concerns about the impact of casino gambling in your neighbourhood.

Despite the published notices that OLG will present information but will not take questions directly from the public, I have been assured that the purpose for the meeting is to gauge the public reception to local gambling; all questions and concerns will be welcomed by the municipalities.

OLG has stated that a casino will not be located in a community if the municipality decides it doesn't want one

Clearview Council has not yet taken a position on a casino in the Township, opting to keep their options open while working with the other three municipalities.

In talking with those in our community who have the responsibility to deal with problem gamblers and their families, I hear very deep concern for their ability to provide an adequate and ongoing public health care response. They stress that a decision to proceed or not with a casino should be informed first and foremost by the public health needs over any promised windfall revenues. One thing that should be asked for is that the four municipalities meet with the health care organizations as part of the overall decision making process.

Clearview has never identified gambling as a means to grow and sustain our community. Through much public consultation on our strategic plan, official plan, master recreation plan and our budgets, a casino or any other form of gaming related activity has not been identified as a priority. It doesn't fit in our vision for our community. By design, a casino blocks out the appreciation of our natural landscapes, distracts our residents and visitors from participating in our many recreational activities, diverts much needed spending away from our businesses and most concerning of all, does not promote a family-centred lifestyle.

I do not support the Province's expansion of privatesector gaming. The Province wants casino gambling to become even more of an everyday activity in our community; their new model is a convenience store approach to gambling. To the Province, it's about raising their net profits from gambling to help pay down deficits. The claimed benefit to communities is that gambling will help deliver services, stimulate community development and create jobs. Sounds good, but unfortunately, the total social costs to care for problem gamblers have not been factored in to determine if indeed a community actually gains from gaming. With the expansion of private sector gaming, provincial development investments end up as casino operator profits. Many of the gaming jobs created are low paying, often part time and short on benefts.

Provincially sponsored gambling is seen by some as harmless fun and a voluntary form of taxation. If you don't play you don't pay. Unfortunately, there are many Ontarians who cannot live by that catch phrase; they are addicted to gambling.

The Province knows this very well. According to the Centre for Addiction and Mental Health (CAMH), 3.4 per cent of all Ontarians have a gambling problem. Most startling is the estimate that 30 to 40 per cent of Ontario's gaming revenue comes from this 3.4 per cent of the population; that's 2,000 people negatively impacted in our own communities.

We can do better than betting.

Hort Society visitor's night

The Creemore Horticultural Society's general meeting and visitor's night will take place at 7:30 pm on Wednesday, October 17 at St. Luke's Anglican Church. Appearing as guest speaker will be David Hobson, the weekly garden columnist for the Waterloo Region Record and the Guelph Mercury, and the creator of the Garden Humour Website. He also accompanies groups each spring to the Royal Horticultural Association Flower and Garden Show in London, England.

A lifelong gardener, Hobson happily shares his passion by speaking to many horticultural societies and gardening groups, over the fence to neighbours, innocent bystanders, in fact anyone who will listen. He has spoken at venues such as Canada Blooms, The Canadian National Exhibition, The International Home and Garden Show, Ontario Horticultural Association Convention, and after next week, the world famous Creemore Horticultural Society.

Gift of Music welcomes unusual trio to St. Luke's

by Laura Walton

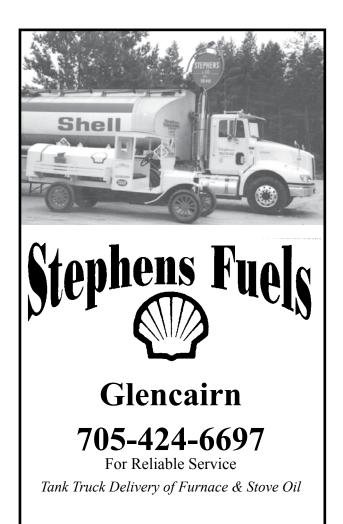

For the past several years the St. Luke's Gift of Music program, with the generous support of the Purple Hills Arts and Heritage Society, has arranged for professional musicians to perform for the students of Nottawasaga and Creemore Public School. Following the school performance, the musicians tutor the school's band members and then step in and perform with them under the guidance of music teacher Chris Phillips. Although it is an unusual ensemble, the best combination of musicians to work with the school band is a flute/ trumpet/clarinet trio. When this year's musicians asked if they could do a 'pay what you can' evening performance at 7:30 pm on Friday, October 19 at St. Luke's Anglican Church, we realized that it would make for a unique evening of music.

Trumpeter/composer Peter Crouch performed for us last spring as half of the Music Around the World Via Trumpet and Piano duo, and charmed the audience with some of his original compositions. He is currently a member of the Perfect Fifth Brass Quintet, ByWard Brass and the Manotick Brass Ensemble. Crouch keeps busy by teaching, composing, arranging and performing solo concerts on a regular basis. His next undertaking is a performance of the complete 'Pictures at an Exhibition' that he has arranged for trumpet and piano.

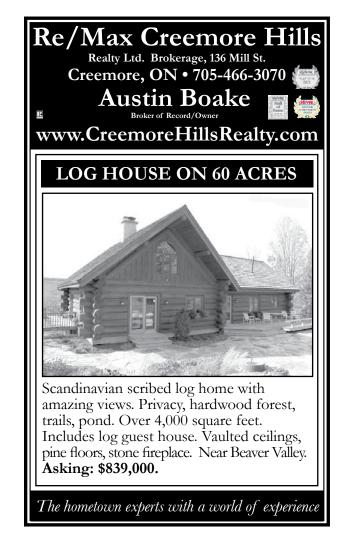

As a freelance musician in Toronto, clarinetist Anthony Thompson performs frequently with the Toronto Symphony Orchestra. Thompson is an active chamber musician, appearing regularly at many of Toronto's musical and cultural venues. He is pursuing a Doctor of Musical Arts degree from Arizona State University.

Flutist Tim Crouch is in demand as a soloist, chamber and orchestral musician, and as a sought after studio musician for film recordings. Notably, in 2010 Crouch was awarded with the top prize in the first annual Canadian Flute Association Competition.

Join us in welcoming this trio for an evening of fun and diverse music. From romances to ragtimes, the three musicians will display virtuosic solos and imaginative arrangements of old favourites.

More to local food than price

Dear Editor:

I read with interest the letter concerning affordable local food. Speaking as someone who has had the privilege of seeing "behind the scenes" at our Farmers' Market, I would ask the authors to consider a little more than just the price of food before they judge if a place is worthwhile. Farmers' markets, for example, are much more than the sum of their parts.

Farmers' Markets Ontario conducted an extensive study concerning farmers' markets as economic multipliers. For every $1 spent at our market, $3.20 goes into local businesses. That, in a small town, has an enormous impact.

Every vendor I have met is trying to sell their goods as cheaply as possible and all worry about charging too much. Every one of us would all make more money per hour if we worked for an employer. The hours spent in the previous days preparing our product, packing cars, travelling, setting up, the hours spent at market, followed by unpacking and cleaning up means that sometimes I can make as "much" as $2 per hour.

The authors of the letter were lucky enough to have a grandmother to make perogies, but many people are living away from their extended families, often juggling long work hours and children. Homemade fresh food made with care, local ingredients and love, cooked to order for them from someone they can see week after week is something very special.

Our market here in Creemore is an important social hub. From the elderly to the very young, our charities to our vendors, the strong sense of community, so rare today, can be found at our market every week. For all the above reasons, vendors at farmers' markets seem to me to give very good value for money.

Sarah Hallett, President, Creemore Farmers' Market

This week's postcard is postdated July 20, 1914 and shows an early 20th century view of downtown Creemore. Addressing the card to Mrs. J. "Walker pit is exhausted - let it go"

Dear Editor

When I first heard about the proposed expansion of Walker Aggregates' Duntroon quarry, I was not opposed. I understood that the quarry had serviced the local community for decades through its products, jobs, taxes, support and spending, and it seemed reasonable that the operation be expanded. However, thanks to the mega-quarry proposal, I have since been made aware of the "big picture":

- There are currently 7,000 aggregate sites in Ontario.
 - Aggregate operations are inherently finite.
- All decision-makers re: aggregate operations are in a conflict of interest position: communities hate the mess and inconvenience but love the economic benefits; land owners have a fundamental right to profit from their property; and all levels of Ontario government get paid a fee for each tonne extracted. They are also the largest consumer of product.
- All decision-makers are loath to let the good times go after a pit is exhausted.

Ontario's Aggregate Resources Act (ARA) and its underlying regulations are based on 40-year old values that do not reflect today's values. Today we care about food security, clean source water, human health/safety, natural space protection, endangered species, resource conservation and waste elimination. The ARA prioritizes rock ahead of all other concerns. The ARA needs updating.

In 1973 Ontarians committed to "conserve the UNESCO-designated Niagara Escarpment World Biosphere Reserve as a continuous natural environment and scenic, working countryside" by creating the Niagara Escarpment Commission (NEC). The proposed Walker expansion is in the Niagara Escarpment and should be subject to the NEC.

If the NEC is to do its job properly, it must clarify whether the ARA takes precedence over the NEC.

Personally, I would prefer to see the NEC take precedence. In general, we Ontarians seem very keen to exploit our natural resources, and then avoid making the hard and expensive decisions re: land after-use/rehabilitation. The Walker pit is exhausted – let it go. After all, we now have MAQ Aggregates' newly approved licence immediately next door on unprotected land. Do we really need two aggregate operations in that area?

Fire department should recognize longtime member

Dear Editor:

Thanksgiving is a time to think of those who should be thanked for their kindness and their contribution to the improvement of our lives and our community.

Creemore is a better place for having Bob Ransier as its proudest citizen. Bob is a champion for many people who need help when they are really in trouble – snowed-in, hooking up to the sewer, digging a grave, planting trees, you name it. The Horticultural Society and the Tree Committee and others can count on Bob's generosity in helping out because he wants a village where it is good to bring up your children and where it is a pleasant place to live.

We can all remember Bob Ransier as a Captain in the Fire Department. He was proud of his association with that service and he trained many of the folks now working on it. He saved lives and got people out of terrifying situations with reliable and capable associates on the force. Nobody was prouder of the work of the Fire Department than Captain Robert Ransier.

I was looking forward to honouring Bob when he was to receive his 25 year pin for honourable service as a firefighter. Others also earn their pins as much as he did. And yet, Bob's firefighting is just one of the many ways he is a model citizen and a champion of so many of us. I wanted to make sure he knew how much we admired his commitment to Creemore and his strength as a pillar of the community. Bob's service ended in 2009 and he should have received his pin in 2010.

The Fire Department did not submit its recommendation that Bob and others should be awarded their 25-year service pins in 2010 or 2011. It is surely time now to do the right thing. What cannot be recovered, however, is that Bob's father would have been so proud seeing his son in uniform receiving the honour and saluting him as a measure of respect that one soldier offers to another. Bob's father is no longer with us.

We need heroes and champions. We need people to step up and put themselves on the line for us and our families. Thank you, Bob Ransier – you are a rock!

Creemore Big Heart Seniors

There were 55 of us out for cards, and Bob Veale mentioned that Jim Murray is going through a bad patch, health-wise, right now. Our thoughts are with Jim and Doreen at this time. The upcoming supper at the Stayner Missionary Church on Saturday, October 27 was announced, with tickets available from Janice Stephens.

Our thanks to Irma Flack for the sweet little red tomatoes and the assortment of peppers, and to Alinda Bishop, who brought in small red and small yellow pear-shaped (acid free) tomatoes for anyone who wanted them. Our sincere thanks to both you gals. I didn't know that anyone other than Norma Johnston grew those little yellow tomatoes.

Also, our thanks to Wilma Bannerman who, some time ago, donated an "old-fashioned cottage" tissue holder – and then today brought refill kleenex to put our cottage back in business. A nice touch, Wilma!

The 50-50 draws went to Audrey Fines, Elsie Longson, May Johnston, Isabelle Gubbels, Lillian Hiltz, Alinda Bishop, Marcia Cameron and Leona Hartling.

Moon shots were played by Bob Veale (2), Toosje Vasvari, Audrey Tidd, Peter Gubbels, Marcie Cameron, Lillian Hiltz, Janice Stephens, Mike Smith and Lucy Young. Lucy won the travelling prize, and Bob won the Sidewinders money.

High scorers were Lucy Young 310, Lillian Hiltz 290, Isabelle Gubbels 282 and Effie Taylor 277. Low was Audrey Fines with 101.

Midway through the second game, just before the goodies were handed around, Barb Pilon, our "Candy Gal" and purchaser of goodies for the club, stood up and announced that she had put some chocolate peanut butter cups into the candy assortment. I realized immediately that they were a bit more costly than our usual fare when Barb carried on to say "Take only one peanut butter cup!" Later on she said, kind of ruefully, "Maybe I shouldn't have said anything, because they are not touching the peanut butter cups!" Anyway, I think we all tried the new goodies, and we sure thank that little gal for putting all the time and effort that she does into "running" this department. Phyllis Seed used to be our candy gal, until her husband Steve became so ill that Phyllis just didn't have the time to do it, though I believe she still keeps an eye out for the bargains for us. I understand that our club is probably the only one that has this tasty perk of candies being passed around two or three times in the afternoon, which is appreciated by us all.

Now in mentioning Phyllis Seed, it brings to mind that on Thursday, I was going to make some smart-apple remark to Phyllis, and to Marg Hope, who both hadn't moved from their starting table by the fifth or sixth game. Something like, "Did you gals pay your rent?" or "Are you gals on a time-share vacation?" But I didn't, because sure as Sunday, the next person they would have had a reason to make fun of would be Moi! So I was discreet, and didn't say a word – right?

Maurice Weatherall's brand new great grandson made one of his first "calls" recently when his gramma, Heather (Weatherall) Rowell, brought him across the street from where he was visiting with great grampa to meet us. He is just the most adorable little boy, with the startings of a full head of bright red hair – just like his daddy. Thank you so much, Heather. You made our day!

I loved Elaine Collier's column "Some autumn colour" in last week's Echo. The writing about the fall colours was nice, but the part that stopped me in my tracks was where she wrote about "eating down" the freezer, and the mysterious unlabelled packages that she found there. It made me wonder if she had been poking around in my freezer! Then I knew for sure she had been into my fridge and cupboards where I store my multiple bottles of vanilla flavouring, etc, etc. Maybe we should get together and trade some of our excesses with each other, just to even out the supplies!

I seem to have a couple of problems in the "over-stocked" department that are hard to overcome. One is that I grew up on a farm with a mother who canned and preserved everything she got her hands on in the food department. We didn't have a fridge or a freezer when I was young, so the only thing to do was "can" it for future use – although we did rent a freezer locker for our homegrown beef and pork from Stan Nixon (or his dad). This was located right across the street from the Echo office, on Caroline Street

Then there was the fact that people had big families in the 1940s, and they did not hesitate to drop in unannounced for a Sunday visit, which of course meant that they staved for supper. And Mother would have been totally mortified if she had ever been such a poor manager that she couldn't feed an extra dozen people at the drop of a hat, or a rap at the door! So I grew up knowing you must preserve food, and you must have an emergency "stash" capable of feeding at least 20 people – maybe more than one meal, depending on their length of stay. And no, there were no stores open on Sunday where you could dash out for a loaf of bread, or a quart of milk. The housewife relied on her own "store" - and that's a hard lesson to forget, and one that leaves me shaking my head at my own overloaded storage shelves today.

It also leaves me in awe of my mother, who wasn't a very big lady, but who managed to handle five kids and my dad's mother, who lived with us and who was blind. My mother helped out in the barn with the milking and so on, did all the canning, preserving, and gardening, as well as wallpapering (with Pearl Mattice's help) and painting, separating and shipping cream, churning butter, doing all her own baking and an awful lot of knitting and sewing, plus she was always trying to get more flowers to grow. My mother was really a remarkable woman, but it was normal for the times.

Over all, the problem of having too much is ever so much nicer a worry than the problem of having not enough. And we are all so fortunate to live in this country, and in this age and era.

Thanks to the Township for cutting the roadside grass, and for doing such a great job, especially on the rural corners. There were some places where the high grass and weeds, backed by tall corn, made it impossible to see oncoming traffic at a corner. The way the Township crew cut it right back to the edge of the crop made for way better visibility, and much safer for motorists. Way to go, guys!

STRUTTING THEIR STUFF Last weekend's Walk a Mile in Her Shoes fundraiser in support of the My Friend's House women's shelter was a huge success, with 54 men donning high heels and raising $28,000 for the cause. We're proud to report that the Echo's Fred Mills was the event's third most successful fundraiser, raising over $1,600 in pledges. And he looked pretty smooth in his heels as well – he claimed that his feet felt pretty good at the end of the day. Congratulations, Fred, on a job well done.

Celebrating our heritage

A crowd of well-wishers gathered at Creemore Springs Brewery last Saturday as Purple Hills Arts & Heritage Society member Aiken Scherberger unveiled one of 13 new heritage plaques that have been placed around the village. The plaque on the brewery honours Creemore Springs founder John Wiggins, "The Man Who Put Our Village On the Map."

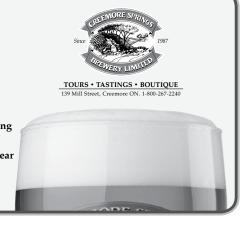

The heritage plaque program benefited from a donation from Creemore Springs Brewery. Other plaques commemorate such things as the area's original Petun village, the original Edward Webster survey, the pharmacy as our oldest business, Samuel Champlain's visit, Kembar's shoe store, Jim Vandewater, the Union cemetery, the early mills, the Log Cabin and the old railroad.

WALKING FOR A CAUSE Last weekend's Dunedin Fall Colours Cancer Walk saw a good-sized group gather in Dunedin for the traditional group shot (above) before heading out for a scenic walk to Glen Huron.

At Creemore Springs we take pride in introducing folks to the great taste of our beer and showing them how we make it. So the next time you're near the town of Creemore, drop by the brewery, the hospitality is on us.

FRED'S FUNNIES

I live in a semi rural area. We recently had a new neighbour call the local Township administrative office to request the removal of the DEER CROSSING sign on our road. The reason: "Too many deer are being hit by cars out here! I don't think this is a good place for them to be crossing anymore."

Project Update

Through the Renewable Energy Approvals (REA) process, Dufferin Wind Power Inc. (DWP) has been permitting two power line options to connect their wind farm to the provincial electricity grid:

1) A DUAL 69 KV POWER LINE - TO BE LOCATED IN MUNICIPAL ROAD ALLOWANCES
2) A DEDICATED 230 KV POWER LINE - TO BE LOCATED IN A FORMER RAIL CORRIDOR

Both power line options are being considered however, DWP has selected the rail corridor as the primary option due to its lower overall impact to the community and the environment. DWP is currently negotiating an easement agreement with Dufferin County to install the power line along the side of the rail corridor so it does not disrupt the use of the recreational trail. DWP has also committed to installing a portion of the power line underground within the Town of Shelburne. Once an easement agreement has been reached with the County, DWP will drop the 69 kV option from the permitting process.

The former rail corridor is the preferred choice because:

- During the project's community meetings and public consultation process, community members overwhelmingly preferred this route as having the least impact on the community
- The rail corridor route passes a significantly smaller number of homes and businesses in Melancthon, Mulmur, Amaranth, and Mono as compared to the 69 kV option
- The rail corridor route requires a substantially smaller number of power poles than the 69 kV option and will have a much smaller impact on the community and environment

The 69 kV power line is expected to have a substantially larger impact on the community and environment because:

- The 69 kV option would require almost three times more power poles than the rail corridor option and these poles would run on the side of the road in Melancthon, Mulmur, Amaranth, and Mono and pass directly by many homes, businesses, and developments
- In many locations these new power poles would be much larger and spaced more closely together than the power poles that are currently installed along the side of the road
- The 69 kV option would require a second transformer substation be built in the Town of Mono. (The rail corridor option requires only one transformer substation in the project area)

Important to Know

Although constructing a power line using the rail corridor is expected to cost more than the 69 kV option, it will have a smaller overall impact on the community and the environment. To Dufferin Wind Power, it is clearly the preferred route based on information gathered from community consultations.
