MORE LOCAL POWER ON GREEN ENERGY

by Brad Holden

Reacting to long-standing criticism about the lack of municipal control in the Green Energy Act, the provincial government has announced several major changes to the approvals process for renewable energy projects over 500 kilowatts in size.

While stopping short of offering municipalities veto power over projects proposed within their boundaries, the new rules will require developers to work with municipalities to determine acceptable locations for their turbines or solar arrays, and give priority to projects that feature a partnership between developers and municipalities.

"It's... clear that we need to make changes to increase local control over the siting of renewable energy projects," said Energy Minister Bob

(See "New" on page 7)

Bell tower to be functional this month

by Brad Holden

Long-suffering Bell Mobility customers can expect some relief from the notoriously spotty cell phone coverage they experience in Creemore by the end of this month.

A new short-scale cellular tower has now been erected on Bell's property on Wellington Street West and, according to Bell Canada media relations representative Jason Laszlo, the company "expects to have enhanced high-speed mobile coverage for downtown Creemore in place in June."

At right are two maps provided by Bell to Clearview Township when the company was notifying the municipality of its plans last fall. The above map shows Bell cell coverage in the Creemore area as it currently exists; at bottom is what's anticipated once the tower is operational.

A garden for the whole community

by Emily Worts

Last week a dozen or more Creemore residents, aged three weeks to let's say "middle age," gathered behind the Log Cabin to begin a project we hope will not only change the local landscape but change local diets as well.

Stakes were hammered into place and string was stretched across hard packed soil, delineating the first eight beds of what will soon become the Creemore Community Garden. The initiative is a humble one, but the vision of our group is anything but.

When we began talking about a community garden over the winter months, our reasons were as numerous as the people involved. For some, a community garden is a means of improving the family harvest. For others, their own backyards are too shady or their beautiful black walnuts have unfortunately left their soil too toxic to grow some vegetables. For others, apartment living means limited access to soil. Some wanted to involve local schools by creating demonstration gardens. Others simply wanted to have company as they garden. But for all, one objective seemed clear: let's grow food for those who can't and hopefully, in the process, engage them to join in.

Food security is an issue facing millions of Canadians. Food banks are running at full speed and often have limited access to fresh food.

In Stayner, Earl Hoover began the Clearview Community Garden and successfully harvests over an acre solely for the Clearview Stayner Food Bank. In Wasaga Beach 52 community plots were reserved before the season started, with several groups and individuals growing solely for local food banks. The same is happening in Thornbury, Collingwood and Meaford.

This past Sunday at an event hosted by Curiosity House and the 100 Mile Store, Nick Saul and Andrea Curtis, authors of The STOP: How the Fight for Good Food Transformed a Community and Inspired a Movement, provided us with even more inspiration with their talk on revolutionizing food security systems, including the food bank model, across Canada.

"This is the equivalent of the civil rights movement and women's fight for the vote," said an impassioned Saul of the movement to secure good food for all in an equitable way.

When he asked the room of 40 or more people who had ever visited their local MP, only three raised their hands. It is up to us to act, he said, and demand more when it comes to the nutrition of our nation.

"It's organics for the rich and diabetes for the poor," said Saul of a food bank system that is antiquated, based on a flawed belief of charity as handouts, and which supplies primarily non-perishable food.

Until our own initiative began here in Creemore, many of us were unaware that families in our own village needed support. We also learned that Teddy Bears Picnic Children's Centre collects food anonymously for several of its families who, for so many different reasons, can't make ends meet.

Food banks don't have to be anonymous spaces in church basements says Saul, who transformed the STOP food bank in Toronto into a community space of greenhouses, gardens, kitchens, classrooms and gathering areas.

Saul's new initiative, Community Food Centres Canada, provides ideas and resources to organizations across Canada who want to establish food centres focusing on growing, cooking, sharing and advocating for good food rather than handouts.

Community Food Centres encourage participation in all aspects of acquiring food; in the process patrons can overcome the embarrassment of being hungry.

Bringing food insecurity out of the dark and into the open air and green spaces of our town means together we can celebrate food, nourishment and a healthy planet for all.

The Creemore Community Garden is looking for donations and volunteers. We are also looking for untreated wood to line our eight beds, tools, hose, compost, ideas, muscle and support of all kinds... words of encouragement go a long way!

The STOP, available at Curiosity House, is a fantastic read that is gripping, inspirational and informative all at the same time.

EDITORIAL Saturdays at the Market

The Creemore Echo's annual subscription drive comes to a close this weekend, with one final appearance by Brad and Sara at the Creemore Farmers' Market.

Let us sincerely thank those of you who have stopped by our booth to either renew your subscription or take out a new one. It isn't always easy to explain why we sell subscriptions to a newspaper that everyone gets for free on Friday mornings, but those of you who get it, really get it.

There aren't that many small-town independent newspapers around anymore; the industry has generally moved to a model where big conglomerates own large rosters of "community" papers, regionalizing much of their editorial and sales staff and sometimes having little to no presence in the towns they serve.

We do things differently here at the Echo. We all live here, we love this town, and we do our best to put out a great publication on a weekly basis. In order to gain and retain the advertisers that are so crucial to our bottom line, we distribute the paper for free. But subscribers, or supporters, or whatever you want to call them, help keep this paper alive. We appreciate any support you can provide. See you at the market!

Unwilling turbine host, willing host to what?

Letter to the Editor

I'm wondering if the bid to declare Clearview an "unwilling host to wind turbines" means that Clearview becomes a "willing host to climate change."

Perhaps, but think of the benefits... our grandchildren won't need to put up with that crush of Toronto skiers, snow clearing will become a fond memory, and low water levels could provide space for another block or two of waterfront lots along the shores of Georgian Bay.

However, we might want to rethink the current County branding exercise as I suspect the name "Clearview" will somehow seem inappropriate. Fortunately though, by the time we have concluded that turbines weren't as threatening as we thought, the haze will pretty much eliminate seeing them from a half a kilometre or so. Sounds like a win-win to me!

Mind you, that estimate of addressing the low lake levels reported last week was kind of scary, eh?

John Hillier, Creemore

Wynne's "win/win" is a loss for writer

Dear Editor:

Premier Kathleen Wynne's ploy to recapture some of the rural support that the Liberals lost after their Green Energy Act's exclusion of any municipal right to object to the wind turbine farms being foisted on them is her recent announcement that, from now on, municipalities will have the right to do so. A great public relations gesture. However, the caveat to her announcement was found in her remark, "We always have to balance the greater good with the local good."

To convince municipal councils to come on side, she's bribing them with a tax that will be levied on the wind producer, payable to the municipality. In addition, the government will have the wind company offer a share of their revenues.

Municipal councils now have the opportunity to say something, just as long as they say what the government wants them to. If they object to having turbines in their area, the government can easily find that "the greater good" applies and the municipality ends up with the turbines, but no "tax" or "share" remuneration. It's hard for councillors to make a righteous stand when seemingly there's a gun to their heads.

So what's so different from the way it was? The difference is, municipalities are now being coerced. Blackmailed might be a better word... or does corrupted apply?

Ms. Wynne is naïve to think that rural Ontarians, a people that live by a handshake for a guarantee, would be anything but demeaned by such a crass proposal. This kind of political gamesmanship will lose her the credibility she strives for, and the respect of rural Ontarians. She has sullied their dignity. Her policy might win her more wind turbines, but will certainly lose her more votes.

The government's "win/win" proposal might be too much for some municipalities to resist, considering their financial straits, and the fact they're effectively being given no choice. However, there are many councillors who will rise above government intimidation and stand for the integrity of their beliefs, and vote to defeat the encroachment of wind turbines in their municipalities.

The proposal has put Ontarians' backs to the wall. They've been insulted and feel violated, so watch out for a negative backlash, throughout the province.

By subverting the principles of democracy this way, Ms. Wynne, you have lost rural Ontarians' faith in the Liberal Party's ability to be the guardian of it.

John Wiggins, Clearview Township

PS: If Ms. Wynne had just allowed municipalities the opportunity for input, to be considered in the process, she'd have won rural Ontario's respect and thanks. But, by trying to control their input, she lost their respect and trust.

Creemore Big Heart Seniors

Yours truly was away for a medical test today, so again my thanks to Barb Cudmore, Irma Flack and everyone else who stepped up and gave a hand. All very much appreciated by the 47 avid card players who were present.

The 50/50 draw winners were Marcie Cameron, Pat Winger, June Hartley (2), Irma Flack, George Bentley and Bob Veale.

Moon shots were led off by Irma Flack, followed by Eileen Nash (2), Jim Rigney, Evelyn Warden, Marcia Cameron, Roy Veinot, Peter Gubbels, Dave Smith, Earl Bentley and Marg Hennessey. Marg won the travelling prize, and Jim Rigney won the Sidewinders loot.

High scorers were Phyllis Seed 309, Betty Bartlett 288, Art Bishop 275 and Ray Broad 272. Low was Dave Smith with 113.

We have used a coffee urn to brew our tea in for quite a number of years. Well, just recently it packed it in. So our thanks to Ruth Gilpin for donating a 32-cup urn that she was not using to Seniors. I understand our Head Honcho, Ray Leighton, phoned Ruth to let her know it worked just fine, and to thank her. Our Ray is just naturally a diplomat, and one of these days we'll see him arrive in a suit! Never mind my "smart apple" remarks, Ray, we all think you are doing a great job!

Sylvia

Ruby Klinck (or Joan Monaghan, I'm not positive which) had a humorous story that they had Irma Flack read out, and Jim Rigney told a story about a young boy – very cute!

Our thanks to those folks in Creemore who shared the lovely fresh lettuce and green onions out of their garden, and for the lovely rhubarb cake to boot! Thank goodness my brother married a good cook who is always willing to share!

Also in the sharing mode was Leona Hartling who donated a whole bunch of green garbage bags full of wool (or yarn) for Nancy Strand. We picked them up and delivered them – only Nancy wasn't home, so we left them with her in-laws, which we have done before, and they see it gets to her. But she will be so happy to get your gift, Leona. And I even had a small bag of wool from Wilma Bannerman that finally reached its destination. So thanks to you all for your generosity.

This past week we had a visit from the Creemore Fire Department. These chaps were checking out home smoke alarms, and we were happy to find that they checked out A-OK. But this was a first for me. Back in 1960 (when I bought here) I don't think smoke alarms had yet been invented. Or, if they were, I probably could not afford them. But from the 1970s on, we have always tried to see that our batteries were changed on schedule, etc. And this was the very first time that we had an outside agency come in to "double" check. Nice to see you folks out and about, as we are great fans of smoke alarms – working smoke alarms!

ONE FOR THE DOGS Last Saturday was "Mollie Doodle Day" at the Danceroom in Stayner, with Creemore children's author darcie-que and her dog Mollie attending, darcie's daughter Emily Fischel singing and the school's dance students performing a "Mollie Doodle Dance" choreographed for the event.

YOUNG MUSICIANS Creemore resident Carlee Gowan (centre), who is in the fourth and final year of a Bachelor of Music program at McMaster University, brought the community a treat last Saturday. Playing piano and performing with fellow McMaster music students Janice Wieler on flute and Amelia Lima on clarinet, Gowan led an evening of music at St. John's United Church. All three of the performers plan on becoming high school music teachers when they finish their studies. Also performing as part of the evening were four members of the Nottawasaga & Creemore Public School band – Riley Henderson on trumpet, Ashley Arsenault on flute and piccolo, Hannah Van Severn on trumpet and Obi Page on percussion. Free will offerings made during the evening will go to the ongoing mainenance of St. John's United Church.

Jeff Stonehouse, Diana Lam and Mathew Walton will perform at St. Luke's Anglican Church this Sunday.

Music that tells a story

by Laura Walton

Pianist Mathew Walton and flutists Diana Lam and Jeff Stonehouse will be performing for the Gift of Music this Sunday, June 9, focusing on music that is inspired by stories. From excerpts from Bizet's 'Carmen' to 'Peter Crouch,' 'The Disgruntled Pied Piper,' the Flower Duet from Lakme and Poulenc's musical interpretation of the first book of Babar, the little elephant much loved by children of all ages, the afternoon will bring music to life.

All three musicians met while doing their undergraduate studies in music at Wilfrid Laurier University. Walton arrived the year that Lam was graduating in performance, while Stonehouse, who pursued a degree in musical therapy as well as a degree in performance, graduated a year after Lam. Although they studied in different years, what they had in common was that they were all concerto competition winners in their respective years, which entitled them to perform a solo piece with full orchestral backup. After graduating from Laurier, all three members of the trio left Waterloo to attain graduate degrees in music performance, and two years ago decided to form the Laurier Trio.

Lam was principal flute of the Ottawa Chamber Orchestra from 2008 to 2011, and is involved in multiple chamber music collaborations in the Ottawa area. She has performed internationally, and has been an archival recording artist for the Canadian Music Centre. She currently resides in Ottawa and is on Flute Faculty for Carleton University and for the National Capital Suzuki School of Music.

Montreal-based flutist Stonehouse is a prize winner from several national competitions, including the TD-Canada Trust Young Artist Competition and the Ken Murray Concerto Competition. He is co-artistic director of Productions Berrisque, a Montreal-based company dedicated to alternative chamber music performance, and also performs with the harp trio Isosceles, the Burgundy Winds and l'Ensemble Paramirabo.

Walton currently resides in Edmonton, where he is undertaking doctoral studies in music at the University of Alberta. Outside of performance, he has also completed a Master's degree in Musicology, with a research focus on the genre of the piano paraphrase and musical narrative.

Walton was recently awarded a scholarship to study the "poetry and performance" of lieder during a five-week master course at the Franz-Schubert-Institut in Austria this summer before returning to Edmonton.

Trio Laurier will be performing in Creemore this Sunday, June 9, at 3 pm at St. Luke's Anglican Church. Following the concert, join us to meet with the musicians and enjoy complimentary refreshments. Tickets, at $15, are available at the Echo, Curiosity House Books and at the door.

New green energy rules: more local power but no veto

Chiarelli in a press release. "These changes will give communities and municipalities a stronger voice, more options and new tools when it comes to renewable energy."

The province also announced that it will revise the program rules for projects between 10 and 500 kilowatts to give priority to projects partnered or led by municipalities, work with municipalities to determine a property tax rate increase for wind turbine towers, and provide funding to help small and medium-sized municipalities develop Municipal Energy Plans that will focus on increasing conservation and helping to identify the best energy infrastructure options for a community.

Opponents to wind energy have objected to the new rules, saying that veto power is the only acceptable option for municipalities.

The changes will not affect the wpd Canada proposal for an eight-turbine, 18.4 megawatt wind development in the vicinity of Fairgrounds Road and County Road 91.

Clearview Council will debate a motion put forward by Councillor Thom Paterson on Monday, June 10, which could see the Township declare itself an "unwilling host" for wind turbines.

FIRST AID CHAMPIONS Creemore resident Mike MacAlpine (above left) is a member of the Craigleith Ski Patrol. On May 24, he and two other members, Brittany Borysek and Steve Trafford, competed in the annual Canadian Ski Patrol National First Aid Skills Competition at Toronto's Nathan Phillips Square and won. For four hours, competing against nine other teams from across Canada, MacAlpine and his partners rotated through twelve 12-minute skill stations and one casualty simulation scenario. The stations included delivering a baby, CPR using an automatic electronic defibrillator, various splints for legs and arms, backboard tie-downs and other situations. The casualty scenario involved two patients who had been working on a stage. One man was found lying unconscious with nails impaled in his hand, and the other, conscious but with a broken collar bone and an injured ankle, explained that his co-worker had fallen from a height, hit him and landed on a board with nails. Teams were required to assess both patients to determine their injuries, find out what had happened from the conscious patient, bandage the unconscious patient's hand and backboard him, communicate his injuries to actual Toronto EMS professionals, and then treat the injuries of the conscious patient – all within a tight time limit of 24 minutes.

Renewable Energy Approval
Notice of Project Change
S.16.0.1 Ontario Regulation 359/09 (as amended July, 2012)

NOTICE OF PROJECT CHANGE by Dufferin Wind Power Inc. regarding a Proposal to Engage in a Renewable Energy Project

Project Name: Dufferin Wind Power Project
Project Location (municipalities): Melancthon, Shelburne, and Amaranth in the County of Dufferin, Ontario
Dated at: The County of Dufferin, May 31, 2013
OPA Reference #: F-000661-WIN-130-601
EBR Registry Number: 011-7852

Dufferin Wind Power Inc. is planning to engage in a renewable energy project which will require the issuance of a Renewable Energy Approval (REA) by the Ministry of the Environment (MOE). The proposal to engage in the project and the project itself are subject to the provisions of the Environmental Protection Act (Act) Part V.0.1 and Ontario Regulation 359/09 (Regulation).

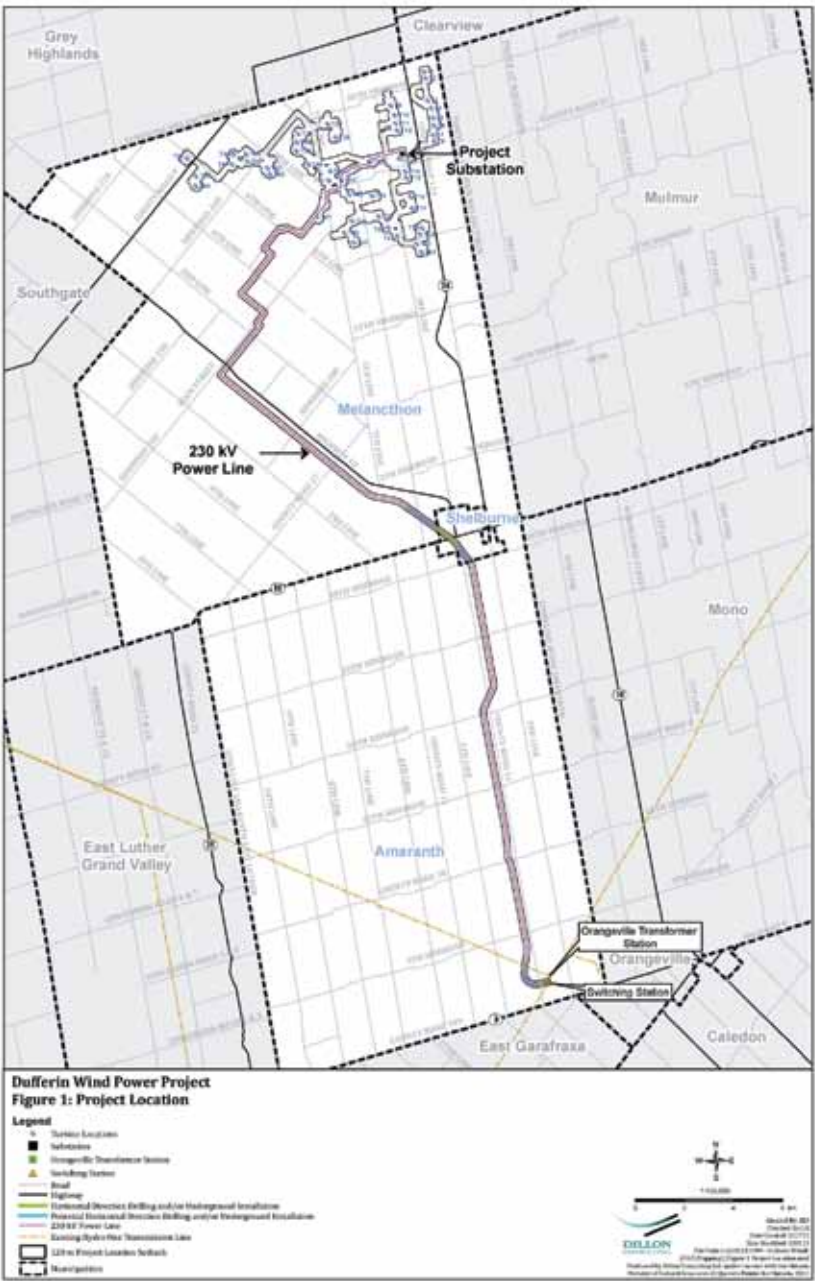

An REA application was made to the MOE in August 2012. It was deemed complete by the MOE and posted for a 30-day public review and comment period starting December 27, 2012, and ending on February 12, 2013. Currently the application is undergoing a six-month technical review by the MOE.

Since submission of the application, minor changes have been proposed by Dufferin Wind Power Inc. Project modifications were documented in a Changes Report released for public review on April 9, 2013. Since this time, continued project development has resulted in additional project modifications being required. Project modifications following the Final Public Meeting for the Project require notification to the Director of the change(s), as per s. 16.0.1 (2), and publication of a Notice of Project Change under Section 16.0.1 (3) of the Regulation. This Notice is being distributed in accordance with Section 16 of the Regulation.

Project Description:
Pursuant to the Act and Regulation, the facility, in respect of which this project is to be engaged in, is a wind energy project and is rated as a Class 4 Wind Facility. If approved, the proposed wind farm project would have a total name plate capacity of 99.1 MW. The wind farm components are to be located entirely in the Township of Melancthon. The Project requires a 48 km power line that would be constructed within a private easement and within the County-owned former Bruce Grey rail corridor. It would pass through the Township of Melancthon, the Town of Shelburne (underground) and connect to the Provincial grid in the Township of Amaranth.

Description of Minor Changes to the REA Application:

- Twenty Three minor project modifications are proposed:
- Changes to temporary construction areas at:
    - Lot 29, Concession 6, Township of Melancthon

The winds are changing, according to writer

Singhampton resident Jan Minduik, who actively opposes the Skyway 124 wind project proposed for south of that community, sent us this article written by Eric Nixon of Hayter-Walden Publications. It has been reproduced on the websites of various anti-wind power organizations, such as Wind Concerns Ontario and Ontario Wind Resistance. With the permission of the author, Minduik submitted it to the Echo as a sort-of "Letter to the Editor."

Forget everything you've ever heard about industrial wind turbines.

Forget about the fact that some people can't sleep because of them. Or that they cause property devaluations by up to 50 per cent. Or that they're a blight on the rural landscape.

Forget about the fact that they make life unlivable for many autistic children. Or that many countries in the world are in the process of abandoning them. Or that they only operate less than 30 per cent of the time and often when they're not needed.

Forget about the fact that they create virtually no jobs. Or that they seriously affect tourism. Or that they kill birds, bats and other wildlife.

Forget about the fact that they're causing the destruction of valuable, productive farmland. Or that much of their profits go to U.S.-based corporations. Or that they cause tinnitus and other hearing disorders for many people.

Forget about the fact that it will likely cost us hundreds of millions of dollars to tear them down in two decades or whenever they need to be decommissioned. Or that they're driving a wedge between rural neighbours. Or that many people suffer headaches, dizziness, vertigo, nausea and other health disorders because of them.

Forget about the fact that they're so unreliable they require other traditional forms of energy production just to supplement the meagre amount of power they produce. Or that when the nearly 800 litres of oil they contain starts burning most municipal fire departments are instructed to stand and watch them go up in flames because of safety and insurance concerns. Or that in the winter they throw chunks of ice as large as refrigerators hundreds of metres through the air.

Forget all of it. Just remember this. Industrial wind turbines make absolutely zero economic sense. And, finally, the reality is starting to sink in across the province.

Don't listen to me. Don't listen to all the propaganda and rhetoric and hyperbole that get tossed around regularly by both sides of the wind energy debate. Listen to the Auditor General of Ontario, whose damning 2011 report on Renewable Energy Initiatives, including industrial wind turbines, paints a bleak picture of Ontario's energy future.

In the report, the AG notes that when the Green Energy Act was passed in May 2009, the Ministry of Energy predicted modest annual increases of 1 per cent in electricity bills because of the cost of adding renewable energy sources. Within a year, the same Ministry had revised its estimates to indicate increases of almost 8 per cent annually for the next five years.

And that's just for residential users. The increased cost to businesses will be astronomical. In the AG's report, it's estimated that the Renewable Energy-related Electricity Charge will increase by 1,000 per cent between 2010 and 2018. It's going to make Ontario one of the most unattractive places to do business in all of North America.

The AG's report also notes that, instead of sticking with a Renewable Energy Standard Offer Program that included competitive bidding, the Ontario government introduced the Feed-In-Tariff (FIT) program in 2009 that added about $4.4 billion in costs through extremely generous incentives to energy providers.

Because a large portion of wind energy is produced when we don't need it (at night or in lower-use seasons), it has to be dumped or it's lost forever. As the AG's report notes, "Ontario deals with surplus-power situations mainly by exporting electricity to other jurisdictions at a price that is lower than the cost of generating that power." That's great news for the U.S. states that buy the cheap electricity from us, but not so much for the people here in Ontario who pay for it.

And for what? The Ontario Power Authority says both average and peak demand for electricity will drop between now and 2025 and that both our installed and effective capacity is already more than enough to meet that demand. However, we'll still be paying handsomely. As the AG's report notes, "Renewable energy generators who have contracts with the OPA will get paid even though Ontario does not need their electricity." Those contracts last 20 years.

And that's just the tip of the ice-encrusted, 40-ton, 180-foot turbine blade. From whatever economic perspective you look at them, industrial wind turbines are a financial disaster that we'll be paying for long after they've stopped generating even a trickle of power.

At long last, the media in larger centres are starting to catch on. Rather than assuming it's just some scattered grassroots complaints from people they like to call NIMBYs (Not In My Back Yard), people in urban areas are beginning to see the big picture, that we're all headed down an economic sinkhole from which we'll never recover. It's about time they realized the truth in what people from rural areas have been saying for years. This delusional, wind-powered flimflam scam must end. The Ontario government got us into this mess. Now it's time for them to get us out, whatever the cost, before it takes down the entire province.

Three guys, stranded on a desert island, find a magic lantern containing a genie, who grants them each one wish.

The first guy wishes he was off the island and back home.

The second guy wishes the same.

The third guy says "I'm lonely. I wish my friends were back here."

Always true, thoughtful and kind.

Wonderful memories

He left behind.

Lovingly remembered by Orneva and family

In memory of Larry Belfry – You would now be 65 and 6 years without you has not dimmed my memory.

Getting your ECHO for free is pretty handy!

The Creemore Echo is delivered free weekly to every home in the area, keeping the entire community engaged and informed. This is made possible in part because of the support of our mail, email and volunteer subscribers who choose to pay $49 per year.

Visit us this weekend at the Creemore Farmers' Market to learn more about subscribing, renew an existing subscription or just to visit with Sara and Brad.
