COUNCIL LOOKS TO ELECTORAL REFORM

by Brad Holden

In the 20 years since amalgamation, Clearview Township's electoral model has remained the same – a Mayor and Deputy Mayor are elected by the entire municipality, and the populations of seven wards, roughly centred on Nottawa, Duntroon, Dunedin, Creemore, New Lowell, Sunnidale Corners and Stayner, each elect a Councillor to join them.

On Monday night, Council indicated the time might have come for a change, directing staff to bring a report back to the table setting out a process for a comprehensive review of Council's structure, which would consider possible changes to ward boundaries, the size of Council, the election method (either by ward or at large), Councillor remuneration and the job descriptions of the Township's elected representatives.

Councillor Brent Preston brought the motion to the table after indicating his plans to do so at the last meeting, and there was unanimous support for the idea on Monday night.

Preston said he was primarily motivated by the growing population inequality between the Township's wards – in the last election, Ward 3 (Dunedin) had the least electors with 1,259, while Ward 6 (New Lowell) had the most with 2,199. Current development patterns will only exacerbate these differences, said Preston, threatening a fundamental tenet of democracy, that each vote should carry more or less equal weight.

A weekend of fun

A Bridge Turns 100

The Collingwood Street Bridge is a century old this year and the committee that's devoted to saving it is inviting the community to celebrate on Saturday, June 29.

From 11:45 am until 4 pm, a portion of Collingwood Street between Edward and Elizabeth Streets will be closed for a good, old-fashioned street party, with free hot dogs and hamburgers, entertainment by the "Rusty Nuts," and face painting by darci-que. Piper Tim Armour will be on hand to lead a procession over the old bridge at high noon, and a historical display will outline the reasons the committee thinks the bridge should be given heritage designation.

May the Best Duck Win

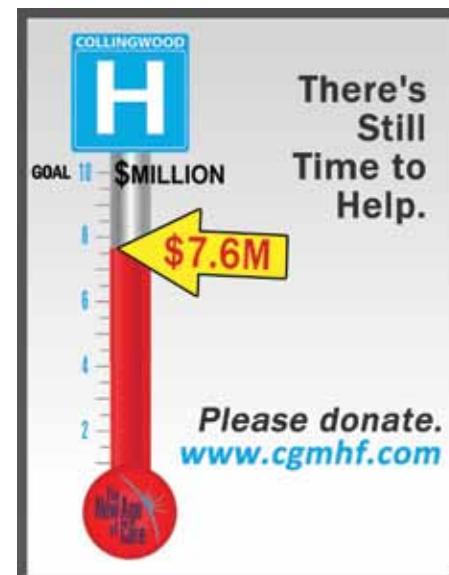

Ray's Place, Creemore's youth resource centre, is partnering with the Creemore Legion to hold a duck race on the Mad River on Monday, July 1. Proceeds will be split between Ray's Place and the Legion's Canada Day festivities. The race ends at Mad River Park at 10:30 am. Ducks, at $5, are available at Ray's Place and Cardboard Castles.

Celebrate Canada

See page 16 for a schedule of Canada Day festivities in Creemore.

POMP & CIRCUMSTANCE The class of 2013 graduated from Nottawasaga and Creemore Public School Wednesday night, and as is tradition, the year's departing Grade 8 students arrived in style. From horse to tractor to Laura Rawn's dune buggy (above), all manners of transportation made an appearance. For more pictures of the grads and their big night, see pages 6 and 7 or visit thecreemoreecho.com.

EDITORIAL The march of generations

Graduation ceremonies at our local schools are always events of great pomp and circumstance, and this year was no difference. Here in Creemore we don't get to witness our high school graduates experience their big night first hand, but the commencement ceremony at Nottawasaga & Creemore Public School, and the grand entrances that preceed it, provides a pretty amazing spectacle of transition, all the more so because for many of the young graduates, it's one of the first times they've donned a suit or a fancy dress.

This year was an extra special one for followers of Creemore history, as several of the area's old farm families – the Millsaps, the Taylors, the Whitleys, the Carruthers, the McLeods and others – had yet another descendent make the jump from Creemore to high school in Stayner.

The Creemore Echo sincerely congratulates all who graduated this week, whether from elementary or high school. These rites of passage are important milestones, and our children deserve the spotlight that's shone upon them as they're honoured for their achievements.

Of course, when you've been doing this long enough, graduations also provide a chance to marvel at the never-ending march of generations. As always, there's another crop of kids coming up through the ranks, and this Monday, on Canada Day, the village of Creemore will provide one of the best events to witness our evolving population. Starting at 12:15 pm, the youngest among us will temporarily take over the main street, piloting their festive rides in the annual Harold Crawford Memorial Bike Parade. Like this past week's commencement festivities, the parade is a spectacle that must be seen to be believed. The future lies in the energy of our youth, and on Monday it will be racing forward on two wheels.

THE WAY WE WERE

Last week we wondered about the location of this picture, one of Viola Rawn's collection of photographs of the original paving of Mill Street in 1928, provided to us by Reg Rawn. We had responses from two noted historians – Gerry Blackburn and Bob Curran. They explained that the building seen directly behind the asphalt machine in the foreground was known as the "apple storage" building, one of several building associated with the Hisey mill complex. Located in behind St. Luke's Anglican Church about halfway between Mill and Collingwood Streets, the building must have been used for apples at some point. Blackburn doesn't remember that usage, but he does remember the building as a venue for baking and arts & craft displays during Creemore's annual Winter Fairs. With country roads as unreliable as they were, it would have been the practice to bring a large asphalt machine like this one onsite rather than truck the material in. The small truck seen in the dugout below the hopper can be seen in the other photographs in the series, delivering asphalt from this site to the main street.

LETTER

Green energy is "bankrupting our province"

Dear Editor:

Premier Wynne and Energy Minister Chiarelli: congratulations on taking advantage of Samsung's failing to meet their contract deadlines by reducing Ontario's commitment to them by $2 billion. It's an encouraging crack in the government's adamant stance on its Green Energy policy.

However, to state that this will save every household $24 annually is a spit in the ocean, when the government's own agencies project a 250 per cent increase in the annual cost of electricity within six years! The average household's electricity cost last year of $1,700 is expected to become $4,000 by 2020! Ontario will face "electricity poverty." Many won't be able to afford it. Industries will go elsewhere and institutions will stifle, as we all suffer the consequences.

Contrary to the prediction of a 15-per-cent increase in power required, the need for power has declined in the last few years, and will continue to decrease as the price goes up and industries move to the USA and Quebec where power is cheaper.

Government statements of available megawatts of green energy are misleading, when you consider that wind turbines generate electricity only 28 per cent of the time and 87 per cent of that time when not needed. The 3 per cent of the total electricity generated in Ontario last year by wind turbines was prioritized, so we paid 13.5¢ per kwh for wind energy, while hydro plants (3.5¢ per kwh) were shut down and sometimes nuclear plants as well (5.6¢ per kwh), to accommodate the intermittent input of wind power. Ontario's householders paid a "globalized" charge of 8¢ per kwh while the wholesale rate was 2.8¢ per kwh. It's unfortunate that the marginal contribution of wind energy to Ontario's total consumption is driving up the cost of electricity so disproportionately.

Eventually, Ms. Wynne and Mr. Chiarelli, the Ontario government will have to face the fact that its green energy policy is bankrupting our province. If you think the gas plant fiasco was embarrassing enough to prorogue parliament, what will happen when you have to unwind your agreements with Samsung and all the other provider agreements in place?

Why are we spending billions on unneeded wind power, while starving funding for education, health care and infrastructure?

There is one sobering fact: When the 20-year subsidy agreements expire and there is no longer a subsidy program, what will we do for electricity, if an adequate generation infrastructure of nuclear, hydro and gas are not in place?

John Wiggins, Clearview

Creemore Big Heart Seniors

Our Seniors secretary (me) was absent today as my oxygen was to come from a delivery truck – same provider, different delivery man – that arrived too late to allow me to get to cards or to our catered lunch at the Legion. So thanks to Barb Cudmore and Irma Flack et al who took notes and relayed the info to me.

As mentioned, this was our 12-noon catered lunch held at the Legion and catered by the Legion Ladies (and Mark!). The blessing was composed and given by President Ray Leighton. Ray wrote, "It's so nice to see all your smiling faces here today, and may God bless this food as we eat together and play cards together and enjoy every moment. God bless you all. Amen." Very nice, as was the delicious pork and beef, potatoes, veggies, applesauce, etc, etc, complete with a choice of pies with whipped cream. And my thanks to the club for sending a meal down to me! It was very much appreciated, and it was, as usual, a lovely meal – and no cleanup for our usual wonderful crew. After a cute joke from Ruby Klinck and Jim Rigney, we "got with" our usual programme.

The 50/50 draws went to Lucy Young, Carol Faulkner, Lois Walker, Gerry Miller, Irma Flack, Roy Veinot, Eileen Nash, Mary Donaghey and Alinda Bishop.

Moon shots were played by Lois Walker, Irene Dolson, Bob Veale, Dave Smith, Marcia Cameron, June Hartley, Kevin Keogh and Peter Gubbels. Peter won the travelling prize and Bob won the Sidewinders money.

High scorers were Russ Miller 340 (nice!), Roy Veinot 310, Janice Stephens 306 and Art Bishop 295. Low was Dave Smith with 19.

SENIORS

Sylvia

It was nice to see that Janice Stephens was back with us after her second hip replacement. She is still using a walker, but is slated to be getting around with a cane next week. Also, our condolences go out to Morris and Carol Tymchuck and family on the passing of Morris's sister, Pauline Dibble. And, we are sorry to hear that Bob and Marilyn Knutson are moving rather far afield. We will miss your ready smiles!

I was slated for an angiogram this past week – something I was not looking forward to as they thought they were going to have to do this procedure through a wrist vein. But, as it turned out, they did the test without any trouble.

This past Sunday was the Avening United Church Strawberry Supper that we had hoped to attend, but this turned out to be an overly ambitious idea. Then, thanks to our "Avening Elves," we had a lovely Strawberry Social delivered to the house by Ellen Whitley and Wyatt McCleary. Sincere thanks to the both of you – and Wyatt, you are starting out the right way to becoming a great neighbour if you follow in Ellen's footsteps.

We have all been made quite aware of the recent floods in Alberta. As you know, three of my four kids are in Alberta, and all my grandkids are there also. The hardest hit places were Calgary, Turner Valley, Black Diamond and High River. Know where my kids and some grandkids settled? They live in Calgary (Laurie), Turner Valley (Sharon), Black Diamond (Shannon), and High River (Terry). Maybe the kids just missed the Mad River in the spring?

Some of these towns have been without phones or hydro, but they have been pretty ingenious at getting some of the services up and running. For instance, Black Diamond lost all regular telephone communications. To get a line across to a sub station in Turner Valley, they used a bow and arrow with fishing line, then twine and webbing, rope and heavier telephone cable attached to the phone line and shot it over the Sheep River, and I believe it was successful. But they really do need some bridges rebuilt soon as it takes an ambulance about 55 minutes to get to Turner Valley at present.

My sincere thanks to all of you folks who took a minute to call and check on the well-being of all these kids.

When I saw my photo in colour in the June 14th Echo, I thought, "Wow! That looks much better than the normal black and white one!" My next thought was, "Thank goodness I am no longer working at the CSofMI (Canadian School of Military Intelligence) where Lou Horvath (who also worked there) would have any chance of seeing the 'in colour' picture after being used to the 'black and white' picture." You see, Lou was known for his "smarticisms," and if he had seen the coloured photo, he would have lost no time exclaiming, "There she is, the flower of the family – the blooming idiot!" Or some such thing!

PROFESSIONAL SLUDGE REDUCTION PELLETS

"Sludge reduction pellets offer the customer control over organic material in their ponds."

Use through the summer months to get rid of bottom sludge; Greatly reduce the need for heavy equipment clean out. Very simple to use, spot treat swimming area sludge or treat whole pond.

See full details on our new website

SPRING REPAIR & TUNE-UP SERVICES

When you purchase equipment for your pond to keep the water clean, over time parts can wear out or break down. If you have a fountain, aeration system or a Keonders windmill, we are happy to help maintain and service them.

On our new web site we have a lot of troubleshooting ideas that will give our customers ideas of what to look for before they call. This way between us, we can troubleshoot the problem or help us know what parts to bring with us to save you money and time.

OLD COUNTRY CARS Members of the Georgian Bay, Headwaters and Niagara British Car Clubs stopped in Creemore last Saturday while touring the region. Among the beautiful automobiles assembled was one standout – an orange 2013 McLaren MP4 12C Spider (at right) owned by a man from Niagara on the Lake. Despite the fact the car cost in the neighbourhood of $300,000, the owner was happy to have onlookers sit in the car and check it out.

An Awesome Cause

Municipal governance has also become far more complex over the past two decades, said Preston, and the responsibilities of Council and demands on individual Councillors have changed significantly. “A review of ward boundaries presents an opportunity to examine the role of Council in Clearview Township in a comprehensive way, to ensure that our democratic governance model is suited to the changing nature of our municipal government,” he wrote in the backgrounder accompanying his motion.

Township clerk Pamela Fettes, who Preston joked he had bonded with over a “mutual love of electoral process,” told Council she supported the initiative, despite some concerns about timing and funding.

Any decisions would have to be made before the end of the year, she said, as nominations open for the next municipal election in January 2014. She also predicted that some expert help might be needed to deal with the complexities of such reform, and warned that any changes could be appealed to the Ontario Municipal Board. Despite those caveats, however, Fettes agreed with Preston that a review is warranted.

Others on Council agreed, with Mayor Ken Ferguson pointing out that he’d brought the idea up before on occasion. “Hopefully, we’ll be provided with many avenues, and we can pick and choose what works best for us.”

Deputy Mayor Alicia Savage also voiced her support, stressing that anything done in the name of efficiency is a worthwhile endeavour. “If we don’t do it now, it’s another five years until the opportunity comes back,” she said.

With that, Preston’s motion passed unanimously. It’s anticipated that a staff report will come back to Council by September. Whatever process unfolds after that, Preston’s motion pointed out, will include some measure of public consultation.

Conserving our views

by Brad Holden

Roughly 75 residents dropped into the Clearview Township Planning Department’s Heritage Conservation Open House Tuesday night, and most of the evening’s conversation centred on the possible establishment of a “heritage viewscape” regulation within the Township.

Several maps were laid out around the Council chambers, and attendees were asked to comment on a draft version of where the policy might apply (as seen above).

As explained by planning director Michael Wynia, restrictions in the area would not be placed on structures or activities that are in keeping with historical activities, such as barns or silos, but rather on additions to the landscape that impact negatively on the area’s iconic views.

According to Wynia, such a designation could be a first step toward more traditional forms of heritage preservation, such as designation of individual neighbourhoods or buildings.

A report will likely come back to Council on the subject in September.

Good-bye Creemore!

While sorting through collected memories of more than thirty years, we came across this poem, written by our daughter while she was still a teenager. It seems to express our feelings now as we move on to the next phase of our lives.

(Printed with permission)

Good-byes

What is in a good-bye except a fear of pain?
Good-byes possess memories of moments spent together
And dreams shared by others.
The dreams may live on, but the past moments only fade into the past.
Good-byes lead on to new and long-awaited hellos -
If they are accepted as seeds sown for the future.

IN MEMORIAM

HIRLEHEY – In loving memory of a dear father, mother, brother, and sister. Father Allan who passed away June 28, 1996; Mother Reta who passed away June 29, 2008; Brother Gordon who passed away February 7, 1982; Sister Kathleen Lamers who passed away November 1, 2002

Though many miles separate us,
I feel close to you in my heart,
Though I cannot reach out and touch you
I feel like we're never apart.

Until we meet again.

Still loved and missed by daughter and sister Marjory (Hirlehey) Brightman and family; daughter and sister Patricia (Hirlehey) Hawton and family

THANK YOU

MEESER – Thank you to the many people who offered support and condolences after Joe's sudden passing – we express our sincere thanks. To all the friends and family who phoned, sent flowers, cards and food we also express our appreciation. To everyone at the Fawcett Funeral Home for guiding us through this difficult time we express our gratitude. The moving video presentation was a tribute to Joe's life and brought tears to many an eye. Many thanks to all.

Kathy, Frank, Rolf, Gerrit and Emilee Meeser

A special thank you to Clare and Dawn for having a party at their place with friends and employees. Also for the gifts and cards. Thank you, John Smith

I would like to write a special thank you to Mulmur Township council, staff, employees and friends. Also for the lovely luncheon and delicious desserts and gifts and cards and letters. Thank you. John Smith
