

KEEP WARD SYSTEM, SAY CONSULTANTS

By Kristi Green

The consultants Clearview Township hired to help with the Electoral Review process recommend it make minimal changes to the current system.

“The cautious preference would probably be to keep change to a minimum,” the report said. “In that context, the three Options that were deemed to be most successful at respecting the principles established for this Review are the least disruptive to Clearview’s present electoral.”

“The Consultant Team has concluded, however, that the existing ward system has a number of shortcomings that can be overcome by adopting a new system of representation.”

To improve the current ward system, Watson and Associated Economists Ltd. proposes four options: two for the current seven-ward system, and two for reducing to a five-ward system.

The report examines Clearview’s existing population and forecasts its population and housing growth. It also analyzes alternatives to the current system including an at-large system, which does not use electoral districts.

In an at-large system, nine or seven officials would be elected on the same basis and work from a mandate from the “entire” community.

However, the Township is made up of a geographically large area with distinct communities. This does not lend itself well to effective representation of the population in an at-large system of voting, the report said.

“Most importantly, hardly any members of the public said they wanted it,” said Brent Preston, Councillor for Ward 3.

At four town hall meetings held in September, not one person spoke for the at-large system.

More than 200 members of the public attended the town hall meetings held in Stayner, Nottawa, Brentwood and Creemore last month.

Members of the public can listen to the consultants’ report at a public meeting on Monday, October 7 at the Stayner Community Centre at 7 pm. There will also be time for public input and comments from Council.

Council will discuss the different options and make a final decision about which option to take at its Monday, October 21 meeting.

See maps of the proposed ward changes on page 16. To read the entire report, visit www.clearview.ca.

STEPPING UP TO THE CHALLENGE – Aidan and Riley Forte of Stayner sport firefighter’s uniforms at the Cadet Community Challenge on Saturday, September 28 at the Creemore Arena. That day, the cadets challenged the OPP to a shooting competition, and the Clearview Fire Department, Armed Forces and OPP to a tug-of-war – and won.

A VARIED CAREER ON AND OFF THE LAND

By Kristi Green

Celebrations are set to get underway for one of Creemore's most active residents – both on and off the farm.

When Milton McArthur turns 80 on Sunday, October 6, friends and community members are invited to give him their best wishes at the Creemore Community Recreation Centre.

For McArthur, farming is “just a way of life.” In fact, he couldn't imagine any other kind.

McArthur's farming roots run deep. His parents farmed, his grandparents farmed and his great-grandparents farmed, he said.

Born in Stayner, McArthur grew up in Cashtown on the farm his father bought after he returned from World War I.

McArthur lived there with his parents (who were both born in the Creemore area) and two sisters.

In grade 10, McArthur left school for good. Why? Because he wanted to farm.

At 19, a trip to Ottawa for a debating tournament ended with a twist: meeting his wife-to-be, Marion, who was working at the parliament buildings for the local MP.

Marion was from Elmvalle and she returned to the area to marry McArthur in 1956.

“She must have thought I was alright,” he said.

McArthur's career on the land was varied: at different times he raised dairy and Simmental cattle, had a feed lot and grew cash crops including corn, canola and wheat.

But McArthur was active off the farm, too. He spent 12 years as the Reeve of Nottawasaga from 1963 to 1975. After the amalgamation of Creemore, Stayner, Sunnidale and Nottawasaga, he was elected the first deputy mayor of Clearview.

He was also active in Lion's Club activities, helping organize the Santa Claus parade, among other events.

When it comes to commitment, McArthur sets the bar high. He has never missed a year at the Creemore Curling Club since he started curling when he was 18. He was President of the club in 1961-62, and you can still find him on the ice today.

A horse enthusiast, McArthur, bought his first horses in 1989, showing them at agricultural fairs. Today, he still has three.

The McArthurs had four children on the farm: Brenda, Cheryl, Robert and David.

One of their grandsons, Rusty, now runs the farm full-time. According to McArthur, he “doesn't give Rusty too much advice about farming.”

Just over two years ago, McArthur and his wife moved into Creemore.

Does he miss living on the farm? “Not really,” he said. “There are no horses to feed in town.”

LETTER The goldenrod myth

Autumn has arrived and there is no better time to appreciate the incredible beauty of Ontario's native plant communities. No matter how many times I experience this seasonal transformation, it only continues to fill me with a growing awe and respect for the natural world.

I am a passionate gardener and plant enthusiast. I delight in learning about plants from all over the world, and have always held a special affection for "wildflowers." I have also come to understand the importance of valuing the rich diversity of our native plants and the ecosystems they help create.

Over the next few weeks, we will all enjoy watching the countryside turn from its lush greens into a rich fall tapestry of colour. I especially look forward to the gorgeous variety of asters blooming everywhere in dainty white, mauve and bold purples.

The other plant I have come to really cherish is goldenrod. Goldenrod is one of those plants that evoke strong negative reactions from many people who blame its bright blooms for their late summer/autumn allergies.

The main reason I am writing this letter is to help dispel this longstanding myth. With just a little investigation at the library or online, one will learn that the true culprit is the inconspicuous ragweed.

Ragweed comes into bloom at the same time as goldenrod, but no one notices its tiny green flowers. This is because ragweed relies on the wind for pollination, and so, like grasses and other wind-pollinated plants, its pollen is light and floats around in the air. These plants don't require big, showy blooms to attract insect pollinators.

Goldenrod pollen, on the other hand, is heavy. It can only be moved by the myriad of insects attracted to its golden glowing show. Goldenrod is a crucial source of food and shelter for literally hundreds of insects and animals gearing up for winter. I love to simply go out in the garden to observe the buzzing world of each goldenrod clump.

Ironically, goldenrod is a coveted ornamental in British gardens along with other Ontario natives such as Joe Pye Weed (Eupatorium purpureum). Some goldenrods are rapid colonizers, but with 40 to 60 varieties in Ontario alone, there are also many non-invasive cultivars, so everyone can find the perfect goldenrod for their garden.

For anyone interested in learning more about native plants, I recommend reading the inspiring work of Lorraine Johnson. Lorraine has written numerous books that encourage and challenge us to change our perspective on the wide and weedy. If we can all learn more about native plants and use them in our own gardens, we can call help to re-establish our threatened native habitats.

I find it empowering to know I can really make a difference in the health of our world simply by mowing around the goldenrod that is ready and waiting to grow in my garden.

Kieron Rupke, Creemore

Creemore Big Heart Seniors

There were 43 out for cards today, and we were glad to have a new gal, Flo Kerr. She came with Alinda and Art Bishop from Stayner to join us today.

The 50/50 draws went to Lois Walker, Ruby Klinck, Kevin Keogh (2), Marion Kelly, Tom Sharpe and May Johnston.

Moonshots were played by Irma Flack, Brian McGill, Lillian Hiltz (2), Lois Walker, Pat Winger, Kevin Keogh (2), Ray Leighton, Marge Douglas (2) and Phyllis Seed, who got the travelling prize. There were no sidewinder winners.

High scores were Peter Gubbels 293, Lucy Young 284, Irma Flack 278 and Roy Veinot 271. Low was Jim Ferguson with 67.

Our thanks to the Bishops who brought tomatoes for give away, and for bringing our new gal Flo Kerr.

Thanks to Ray Leighton for convincing Barb and Dave Smith not to harvest their carrots on October 1, but instead to climb aboard the Rama Bus, which, for some reason, mainly because I bugged up I guess, was printed in the paper as being the day to go to Rama.

SENIORS

Sylvia
GALE

Best wishes to Marj Thomson who underwent what I have been told was open heart surgery on September 25. Marj's son Brian reports that she had one aortic valve replaced as well as two bypasses.

She was walking up and down the hall in Newmarket hospital, and is now back in Collingwood hospital to finish her hospitalization time, and hopes to be home before long. Also, Russ Miller is slated for hip surgery soon. Here is hoping he recovers quickly and becomes as pain-free as many others have reported being after surgery.

Thanks to Ellen Whitley for phoning and letting us know that Beth Looby from the Shelburne area had passed away. Beth and Earl Looby were members of our Senior's club some years ago before driving that distance became an issue.

A little bird mentioned our former President, Bob Veale, did not move from that corner table all day. I will bet you are glad that you are not "expected" to lead by example anymore!

Rene Whitley, a longtime friend, took the time to come to my house on Tuesday and help fold some milk bags for the gal that crochets sleeping mats out of them for areas that have been devastated by natural disasters. Rene stayed for lunch and took all the bags, etc., with her to deliver to the thoughtful gal that does the work on them. Thanks, Rene!

Daughter Sharon and her husband Guy are visiting with us for a week or two and we are getting royally spoiled. Everyone who comes near here does something for us – such as Sharon cooking supper as soon as she got here! And, last week, Cynthia, Jerry and Shaylyn Jordan arrived with a complete supper including two kinds of pies for dessert! This right after Laurie left after hardly sitting down to rest while she was here – including cleaning out and organizing the freezer. Son Terry fixed the door, changing the filter in the water purifier and many other things. Unbelievable how good they all are to the old folks!

Last week, Terry was driving Warren's car. We went up to the beach, had lunch, and on the way home gas was $1.19.9/L so Warren, who was in the back seat asked Terry to pull into the tanks. Warren got out and pumped the gas, and I heard him talking to someone, but I paid no attention. Then the gal (who had been trying to sell him car polish) came to the car to speak to the former "Mantracker." She turned away, and Terry drove off.

We drove south on County Road 10 and we were discussing the vegetable crops in the fields we were passing. About five miles down the road, Warren yelled, "Stop! I didn't pay for the gas!" Terry and I started to laugh so hard it was a wonder he didn't forget to steer! Poor Warren – this is quite a serious thing, and the two of us in the front seat are acting like idiots. He is insisting, "I have to go back, right now!" Terry turned around and we headed back. He drove right up to the door, where we could hear the chap with the big smile saying, "So you decided to come back and pay for your gas, eh?"

We still thought it was funny, but Warren, who would never attempt to steal gas in the first place, managed to get through his debut as a crook without "stir" time, and he still doesn't think it was as funny as we did. The arrival of a cruiser at that time would have been priceless!

Mulmur snow squeeze

To cut costs, there will be a little less snowplow service in Mulmur this winter.

At the Mulmur Township Council meeting on Wednesday, October 2, John Willmetts, Director of Public Works, presented three options for man hours required during the 2013-14 winter plow shifts.

Council requested a report examining the winter shift schedule at its 2013 budget workshop.

Willmetts initially recommended that Council maintain the existing level of service.

However, Councillor Earl Hawkins said a cost savings of $16,000 was nothing to sneeze at.

He argued that winters have been getting shorter and he questioned whether the Township could justify “keeping three extra men around.”

Willmetts reminded Council that the employees also take care of spring floods, as well as cut brush and trees.

“I have to budget for the worst-case scenario while hoping for the best,” he said. “It’s the closest cost-saving measure and the closest to the level of service we have.”

Grannies give back

By Kristi Green

After reaching their $50,000 fundraising goal, Creemore’s “Mad and Noisy Grannies” are disbanding.

“All good things have to come to an end,” explained Jill Stevenson, who co-founded the group with Carolyn Smith six years ago.

The two women started Mad and Noisy Grannies after noticing many grandmothers in the area who felt they could “give back” to other people in the world.

The group of 15 “grannies” raised money for the Stephen Lewis Foundation’s “Grandmother to Grandmother” campaign.

The campaign supports grandmothers in Africa who are raising grandchildren because their parents have died from AIDS.

Every year for the past six years, the Mad and Noisy Grannies hosted a bridge luncheon at a different private country home.

Stevenson says the function was “simple to put on.” She attributed its success to two things women really like: party sandwiches and the chance to visit other people’s homes.

Guests donated to the Stephen Lewis Foundation and received lunch made by the grannies. Afterward came bridge with the other guests.

After raising $5,000 at the first bridge luncheon, the grannies realized they were on to something.

They started out with 60 guests, but that number increased to 80 over the years.

“People came from all over – Toronto, Collingwood, Thornbury,” said Stevenson.

When it came to fundraising, these grannies were persistent. This year, Stevenson baked more than 90 chocolate chip cookies for the luncheon. Afterward, she sold the leftovers in bags of 10 for $10. Then, she offered to sell the recipe for $20.

“The “Granny to Granny” campaign in Canada has been very successful and we feel proud to have been a contributor,” Stevenson said. “We could not have achieved our goal without the generous donations of many ladies over the last six years... We thank you all for supporting such a worthwhile cause.”

The Dunedin bell

Dunedin, along with Duntroon, is the oldest village in the area. Both were founded in 1834. Since that early date, Dunedin has had many interesting activities going on. The following article from The Creemore Star of July 20, 1944, illustrates this.

“Some years ago, the managers of the church at Dunedin planned to salvage the old community bell and place it in safe keeping so, while shingling the church this summer, they had the bell placed in the tower.

“They trust it will serve generations yet unborn and remain a memorial to those who purchased it.

“This bell has a history of local interest, going back 60 years. A small private bell rang at the north end of the village for a short time, but was removed and the people missed it very much so they set to work to get a public bell. A canvass was made and the necessary sum secured a first class article. It has a 38-inch face and is 22 inches deep, mounted in a heavy metal frame.

LOCAL HISTORY

Helen

“It is difficult to be exact with the names of the subscriber. There may be slight errors or omissions but here is the list:

“John Bulmer, John Hunter, John Young, John Hopper, John Tweed (blacksmith), William Young, William Bulmer, William Jones (sawmill), Wm

Tweed (flour mill), George Prentice, George Best, George Jones, Geo. Mosley (hotel), Joe Johnston, Joe Leonard (hotel), Thos. Metheral, Thos. Linton, Francis Osborne, Dan Mitchell (postmaster), Jim Brown (shoemaker), Peter McHuffie (carpenter), Moses McCrum, Nathan Jackson, Matthew Rankin, Andrew Young, Sam Best, Richard Metheral and last but not least, Asa Honeywell, who agreed as his part to build a tower on his carpenter shop and ring the bell, a service which continued till decay weakened the tower and the bell came down to stay.

“Mr. Honeywell had a good watch and kept it tuned to the Grand Trunk [railway] at Creemore so everybody was ready to swear by the bell which was rung at 7, 12 and 6 each day. It helped to change many farmers from the three-session day to the 12 and 6 periods.

“Only eight of the 20 patrons have descendants now living at Dunedin.

“The bell served at a few chivaris but it was too cumbersome.

“The bell was mounted and used at the centennial celebrations one year ago.

A NEW PM – Earlier this school year, the students of Nottawasaga and Creemore Public School elected Cassidy Morgan Prime Minister of her student government. Morgan, who is in grade 8, believes she can help her fellow students get involved in school because she already knows a lot of them from activities such as cross-country running and speech-making. “I want people to come to school without being shy and have fun, have friends and things to do,” she said.

ARTS FESTIVAL ENSURES KIDS CAN EXPRESS

By Kristi Green

This weekend, bring your kids to Station on the Green for free literary, artistic and dance events for the young and young-at-heart.

On Saturday, October 5, Lisa Dalrymple and Suzanne Del Rizzo, the author and illustrator of the children's book Skink on the Brink, will read a story and help children create 3-D plasticine illustrations.

In the afternoon, visitors can make their own sock puppets with Robin from RoRo Arts. There will also be mural-painting and a giant puppet theatre to test those puppets out on.

Check out the all-ages dance events on Sunday, October 6. From 10 am to noon, dancer Tanya Williams will conduct a contact improvisation workshop, which involves movement in relation to other people.

Ayrlie MacEachern will lead a playful modern dance workshop from 1:30 to 3:30 pm. And don't forget to bring a t-shirt to decorate at the "Rip n' Rock a T-shirt" event.

"It's important to keep kids in the loop and open them to experiences that involve them in the community," said Laurie Copeland, who is organizing the events.

"I'm a big believer in inspiring kids' imagination. Art can lead you down so many different paths."

Copeland owns the Cardboard Castles toy store, which is sponsoring the kids' events along with Curiosity House Books.

"Creemore is a creative area with a lot of art and artists," she said. "We're lucky to have them, so why not take advantage of so many influences in the area to inspire our own kids?"

For a complete listing of this weekend's Arts Festival events – for both grown-ups and kids – see pages 8 and 9.

WHAT IS ART? – To get the art angle from the children of this village, the Echo talked to kids at the Meet the Teacher event at Nottawasaga and Creemore Public School on Wednesday, October 2.

Ty Hogben, grade 4

"It makes me feel happy and relaxed. I really like to look at it. I've been making pumpkin wreaths."

Gracie Kennedy, grade 6

"Once I drew a crazy face with designs on it and then I sang a song about it. It was fun. I'd do it again..."

Emily Murphy-Duits, grade 1

"I like it when I do my picture by myself without people helping me."

Makenna Halliday, grade 6

"The prettiest and coolest art has trees and nature in it."

September 27 Answer

The proof is in the pie

By Kristi Green

“Every pie is different,” says Creemore resident Linda Cockton.

She should know. Every year she bakes 75 to 100 pies.

Apple, strawberry, wild blueberry, raspberry, lemon meringue, butter pecan. It doesn’t matter what kind – she simply loves to bake pies.

Cockton, a former judge at the annual Creemore Apple Pie Contest, has been baking pies since she was about 10 years old.

But she says she still hasn’t reached perfection. “Every time you make a pie, it’s something new,” she says.

Every fall, Cockton bakes about 30 apple pies using combinations of her favourite kinds of apples.

“This time of year I choose MacIntosh because they break down into nice apple sauce in the pie. Cortlands and MacIntoshes go nicely together, too,” she says.

“But my favourite for winter is Northern Spy because it has such a nice flavour.”

Everyone has their own traditions for baking apple pie – including Cockton.

Her recipe involves adding butter and cinnamon to the pie. She also suggests mixing white and brown sugars together.

To make the “fiddly” pie crust, Cockton uses only cold ingredients and avoids handling the pastry too much.

Then, she bakes the pie in steps: first in a very hot oven for 20 minutes, before gradually lowering the temperature over time.

But the real secret to a great pie? According to Cockton, “make it fresh and serve it still warm.”

A PERFECT DAY FOR PIE – Linda Cockton holds her apple pie – just before it disappeared at the Echo office on Wednesday, October 2.

6th Annual Creemore Apple Pie Contest.
The Creemore Heritage Apples Society invites bakers to bring their best apple pie to the Farmers’ Market on Saturday, October 12. Ribbons will be awarded for the one deemed most delicious.
See the Community Calendar on page 2 for details.

COLOURFUL CURE – The 12th Annual Dunedin Fall Colour Cancer Walk will be held on Saturday, October 12 at 10 am. All those interested in a beautiful fall stroll on Thanksgiving Saturday are welcome to participate in the 6.2 km walk from the Dunedin Hall to Glen Huron. Rides are arranged for the return trip to the hall. Pledge sheets are available at The Creemore Echo for those who would like to help raise money for the Canadian Cancer Society. For more information about the walk, call Donna Hammill at 705-466-3071.

The Electoral Review Consultant Team concludes - Option 7A and 7B are viable systems for the 2014 municipal election and beyond. If there is a case to be made to modify the composition of Council, Option 5A can be endorsed as a system that would be equitable over the course of three elections, but at the cost of providing effective representation of the Township's rural population. The existing ward system should not be retained for the 2014 municipal election and beyond.
