Big plans for Clearview's small halls

by Trina Berlo

Clearview Township's community centres are banding together during the Small Halls Festival for a weekend packed with activities and entertainment.

Events are planned at community halls in Avening, Brentwood, Creemore, Dunedin, Nottawa, Duntroon, Singhampton and Sunnidale Corners, and the Stayner arena, on Oct. 2-5.

On the heels of a branding exercise and a community hall revitalization project, the Small Halls Festival is meant to showcase Clearview's facilities, provide programming for township residents and attract tourists.

Last year, Clearview Township's community centres underwent facility reviews and after a little soul searching hall board members decided to go full bore and do whatever it took to keep the halls open. The volunteers that run the halls raised funds to help pay for the renovations.

With a commitment to maintaining the halls, attention turned to ensuring the future vitality of the halls.

Duntroon Hall board chair Jim Campbell and Avening hall board member Sara Hershoff had been dreaming of an event that brought all the halls together for one event and the Small Halls Festival was born.

"This is our opportunity to let people step back in time and experience what their grandparents might have experienced before rural communities were gutted," said Hershoff. "The halls are a touchstone to our past."

She said it's about celebrating a rural resource that other communities have lost and protecting it for future users.

"Although the community changes, the halls are constant," said Hershoff. "We still need a place to meet and the halls are there to use in any way that we want."

Campbell said it's not just about the immediate community, also welcoming people from elsewhere who want to come in and be a part of the Clearview community.

"It's to bring community together and help find the breadth of Clearview and create a definition in people's minds," said Campbell.

Event planning is coordinated by the Township of Clearview's community culture and recreation coordinator Shane Sargent.

Sargent said $45,000 has been allocated for the festival with $20,000 coming from the township, $20,000 coming a County of Simcoe grant and $5,000 coming from a provincial grant. With the exception of $10,000 in township funds earmarked for programming, the other funds are for marketing purposes.

Sargent also secured three contract staff members to work on the event whose wages are paid for through Employment Insurance and thousands of dollars in sponsorships and in-kind donations.

"We're hoping that it's a signature event for Clearview. Our objective is more about bringing the halls together, promoting Clearview Township as a community that can work together and host significant tourist events," said Sargent.

"We think that the quality of the event is worthy of people travelling from out of market to visit the event. Each hall does have an event that would bring people from out of town."

Of note, he said, is the scotch nosing and dinner in Singhampton, Friday and Saturday night concerts in Avening, the Rib Tickler and Yuk Yuk's in Nottawa, brunch with Dan Needles in Duntroon, celebrity chef Carl Heinrich cooking in Dunedin, a bluegrass concert in Brentwood and two of the top classical guitar players in the world at Sunnidale Corners.

Sculpture unveiling opens arts festival

by Trina Berlo

The Creemore Festival of the Arts taking place Oct. 4-5 will showcase 57 artists.

A sampling of the artists' work will be on display at Station on the Green, where people can get a taste of which art they want to explore further at 26 locations, most of which are located in the village.

The third annual art festival is organized by the Purple Hills Arts and Heritage Society.

"It pays tribute to our local phenomenal talent and shows work the average person in Creemore would never get a chance to see," said event co-chair Miriam Vince.

She said the work shown will range from the refined to the down-and-dirty.

The festival will kick off with opening ceremonies on Saturday morning, when a sculpture by Ernest Herzig will be unveiled.

Herzig is donating a new piece entitled Harmony to the village of Creemore. It will be installed at the horticultural park at Station on the Green.

The bronze sculpture, weighing more than 1,000 pounds, is a linked circle and a square.

The piece represents the male and female form, different but equal, a theme that runs through Herzig's work.

"It's not as much sculpture as it is a message," said Herzig, 83.

His sculptures depict the balance of male and female relationships with a message of gender equality, inspired by acts of suppression and violence against women around the world and domestically.

"Sometimes you set out and it's like a journey that you didn't know where it would go," said Herzig who splits his time between Dunedin and Toronto.

"It's nice for me to be able to make a contribution to the town."

Herzig's work will also be shown at the Mill Street Art Studio during the festival.

Also at Station on the Green is Inspired, a show curated by local artist Sara Sniderhan.

She is assembling the work of 11 highly acclaimed Canadian artists that have very different but complementary styles.

About 25 pieces, including abstract, illustration, sculpture, mixed media and oil paintings, will be shown.

Sniderhan said the artists were chosen for the pure quality of the work.

"In different ways they are breaking ground in what they are doing," she said. "They are right at the forefront. They are giving everything to their art. These guys are pushing themselves into the international scene."

Work by Sniderhan and her husband Peter Mitchell will have work in the show, along with Shaun Downey, Graham Roumieu, Rachel Berman, Marco Cibola, Sean Yelland, Keita Morimoto, Gordon Weibe, Peter Rotter and Gosia.

Many of the artists will be attending a reception at the Station on the Green on Saturday evening when some will be speaking about their work.

Creemore artist Peter Adams will also be in attendance. Adams is the creator of the Detritus Project, an installation of found objects, at the Creemore Log Cabin.

Rusty licence plates, old glass jars, farm implements and other discarded objects found at his farm located just outside the village will be incorporated into the piece. Many of the objects have been excavated from backyard dumping grounds and piles of rock that have been cleared from the fields.

"They are a fragment of suggestions of lives lived," said Adams, a well-known painter.

"In my work, I've always been interested in where the human and natural worlds meet," he said. "It's not about nostalgia. It's a stepping stone for people to contemplate the way we use resources and our relationship with the land, acknowledging generations that came before us."

The Detritus Project is about consumption, agriculture and history, said Adams.

"It's about a lot of things in subtle ways," he said.

While at Station on the Green, which serves as festival headquarters, pick up a map and tour the village to meet with artists on location.

In conjunction with the Small Halls Festival, silk screens of original concert posters by Lucas Gordon will be on display along the bowling lanes at the Avening Hall.

The Creemore Festival of the Arts runs from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 4 and Sunday, Oct. 5.

The reception takes place on Saturday, Oct. 4 from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. Tickets cost $25 in advance, available online, and $30 at the door. Admission to all other exhibits is free. Station on the Green is located at 10 Caroline St. E. Visit pahs.ca.

EDITORIAL

Old halls are still relevant

While celebrating Clearview's halls it's important to be mindful of the past, present and future.

Whether for birthday parties, weddings, funerals, political strategizing or nights out on the town, these halls are there for us.

They are affordable and accessible meeting spaces, ones that we should not take for granted.

The old halls – built in the 1950s in the case of Avening and Duntroon – have been maintained by volunteers throughout the decades.

One can't help but feel nostalgic about late night square dancing, bowling matches and buffet style dinners dished out onto mismatched plates.

We hope that one day a future generation will look back on the activities we attend at the halls with that same sentiment because it will mean they were well used and they formed a part of our community foundation.

Recently, the old halls have undergone renovations, renewing dedication to the cause of keeping the buildings open and relevant.

At this time, hall events are shaping our future community by providing places that are close to home where we can catch up with neighbours and meet newcomers. It's where romances start and children see their first concerts.

While many events are held to raise funds for upkeep of the halls, the events themselves are really the whole point.

We work to keep the halls going but really so we can have a place to come together, where we all have a sense of ownership.

The majority of the halls in Clearview Township are owned by the municipality but receive no operating capital. The halls are managed by a board of volunteers who oversee day-to-day operations, bookings and basic maintenance.

The longevity of the halls can be directly credited to the community members that saw value in preserving public space for without them the buildings would have been sold off long ago.

Many of the hamlets in which the halls are located have already lost their gas stations and general stores. The halls are all that's left of a time when community was a little smaller in scope.

Creemore didn't have a community centre until funds were raised to build Station on the Green, clearly filling a gap.

Even in this digital age of social media, people understand the importance of public space.

We can text each other and send e-mails but inevitably we end up saying, "we should get together".

In these parts, we can rely on community halls for that shared space.

They stand ready to welcome us in.

THE WAY WE WERE

Burton Somerville and Fran MacNicol celebrated their wedding at the Duntroon Hall on May 25, 1957. Burton was one of the young volunteers that helped build the hall. The wedding was the first big event held in the building. Work was still being done to the kitchen but it could be used. The basement floor was still awaiting cement and some planks led to the stairs so the dinner was held upstairs. Tables, chairs, dishes and cutlery were borrowed from people's homes and from the Presbyterian Church. The hall rental was $15 and a turkey dinner was served at $2 per plate.

Cenotaph project receives excellent support from township

Editor:

After last Thursday, many residents of Creemore and visitors from afar will have seen a dramatic change at our cenotaph. On Wednesday and Thursday, the mound of earth surrounding the cenotaph was leveled and limestone screening was delivered and distributed. This progress in our Cenotaph Renewal Project was accomplished thanks to the responsiveness of the Clearview Township.

I cannot say enough about the excellent support given by the Clearview Township personnel. When first contacted, Steven Sage, in his capacity as General Manager of Transportation and Recreation, without hesitation offered his support to our project. Despite our unexpected plan revisions, Steve and his team responded positively. On Tuesday, Norm Nordstrom, representing the Creemore Branch of the Royal Canadian Legion, and I met with Tony Clark and Dan Wyant to confirm the details of our request. On Wednesday, the work crew arrived with excavator and dumptruck. By Thursday evening, the unsightly mound of earth was removed and a bed of limestone screenings was installed. Thanks to the Clearview Township personnel, our Cenotaph Renewal Project has taken a giant step forward.

2014 is a crucial year in terms of acknowledging and respecting the contribution made by Canadians who sacrificed their lives for our society's principles. 2014 is the 100th anniversary of the start of the First World War; it is also the 75th anniversary of the start of the Second World War.

The young people named on our cenotaph (although the list may not be comprehensive) are representative of how widespread was the love of country and loyalty to the Crown. In comparison, our Cenotaph Renewal Project seems such a small gesture.

We have a few more weeks to complete our project of respect.

The cenotaph site will be levelled accurately, interlocking stone will be installed and, sod (hopefully) will be planted. For some of this, there will be a cost. Anyone who would like to make a donation can do so at the TD Bank (account 5208418). Every penny helps.

Thank you to Clearview Township and to all the supporters of our Cenotaph Renewal Project.

Comfort food standby pulled from recipe box

This past weekend, the whole family (except for the cat) was very happy to participate in Golden Rescue's annual picnic. This year's event was a special one, as all attendees were trying to break two Guinness World Records - one for the greatest number of dogs wearing bandanas (surpassed 200 so a big tick in the box there), and one for the greatest number of dogs being groomed at one time (total dogs: 364, beating the current record of 340 by a long shot, or should I say long tail).

Maplelane Kennels in Alliston was the venue for what turned out to be a wonderful day of organized chaos. All the dogs (and their owners) were remarkably well behaved through it all, and did their part to raise funds to help rescue not only golden retrievers but any dogs in need.

Now we've passed the first official

day of autumn, it's clear that the season is starting to work its fall colours magic. Hopefully the leaves will all cooperate by sticking to the trees until after the upcoming Small Halls Festival and Creemore Festival of the Arts. There are other markers of the season including the appearance of the apple bins at Giffen's in Glen Huron. I picked up a half bushel of honey crisps the other day and have been enjoying them ever since. And here's a note for all you apple aficionados out there, this year's local apples are smaller than you're used to. The season was shorter but the apples are no less delicious than every other year. And I have to say they still beat any big honking apple that comes from thousands of miles away. Watch this column as I'm currently working on an apple squash casserole that should be perfect for Thanksgiving dinner.

With the cooler weather, my culinary thoughts have been turning to comfort foods, those heartier, saucier dishes and casseroles that seem to hit the spot right about now. This week's recipe comes from the deepest, darkest recesses of my old recipe box. I originally wrote it out on one of those little white index cards. Yes, it's that old. It was splattered with food stains (in this case, I think it was soy sauce), which means I used to make this dish a lot. Now that I've rediscovered it, I think I'll make up a double batch with one for immediate consumption and the other to be popped into the freezer for later. Hope you enjoy!

Feedback is great and I would love to hear from you. Just email me at elaine@avalonclearview.com.

Ginger Pork Simmer

1 pound pork pieces (bite size)
1 tablespoon all purpose flour
4 green onions, chopped (reserve some of green tips for garnish)
2 tablespoons canola oil
1/2 cup chicken stock
2 tablespoons soy sauce
1 teaspoon powdered ginger
1 teaspoon white sugar
1/4 teaspoon garlic powder
In a measuring cup, combine chicken stock, soy sauce, ginger, sugar and garlic powder and mix well in a large plastic bag, add 1 tablespoon flour, then add pork pieces, seal bag and toss pork pieces to coat.

Heat a large skillet to medium high, add canola oil and then floured pork into pan. Sauté pork until lightly browned, adding a bit more oil if necessary. Add green onions and sauté lightly. Add stock mixture slowly to the skillet and stir. Simmer for 15 minutes, stirring occasionally. Serve over rice or noodles, garnished with onion greens. Serves 4.

Ontario's Beer Store delivers the lowest beer prices in Canada

Ontario consumers benefit from highly competitive beer market

By Jeff Newton

How we sell beer, wine and liquor has been a hot topic this summer across Ontario. Not just how we sell beer, but for how much. For example, consider the claims of those calling for liquor sales at convenience stores and gas stations, including the multinational chains that own them. They have falsely claimed beer prices are lower in Quebec than Ontario. It's just not true. Data gathered by A.C. Nielsen and analyzed by Navigant Economics shows that even though Ontario beer taxes are double those in Quebec, average selling prices at the Beer Store are still lower. When prices before government taxes were examined the study found the average Ontario beer price was more than 18% lower. It also found that the pre-tax price for best selling package sizes - 6, 12 and 24-packs - were all lower here at the Beer Store. In fact, prices at the Beer Store are the lowest in Canada. That's because there is intense competition among brewers who set their own prices at the Beer Store's 450 retail locations - with frequent, multiple price changes as brewers jockey for position and market share. The Beer Store is a completely open system. Any brewer can sell as many brands in as many Beer Store locations as they choose. It's a highly competitive selling environment. With more than 100 brewers and more than 400 brands competing, consumers reap the benefits of competition through lower prices. Complete open access is not a common feature of private alcohol retailing. We believe many small brewers would be denied the ability to sell in small convenience stores and gas stations, thus reducing choice for Ontario consumers. Selling beer, wine and hard liquor at more than 10,000 convenience store and gas station locations, many close to our schools and right next to our homes, would increase distribution costs significantly. Add those higher costs to Ontario's higher beer tax and prices will rise. It's just common sense. Even the CEO of the Ontario Convenience Stores Association told the media their members "never advocated that we were going to offer cheap beer to anybody." He referred to higher prices as an "up charge" related to "the convenience factor." We know milk and bread costs more at the convenience store. But the convenience 'up charge' of selling alcohol is a much higher cost than just dollars and cents. What price do we place on preventing sales to minors? What price do we place on the gains we have made in reducing drinking and driving? What price do we place on keeping crime out of our neighbourhood convenience stores, close to our homes? The real debate is not about price. Ontario consumers already win on price. The real debate is about whether Ontario really needs 10,000 new liquor stores. If the result is an erosion of responsible sales and higher beer prices, we're certain that most Ontarians will say the cost is just too high.

Jeff Newton is President and CEO of Canada's National Brewers (CNB), a national trade association representing Labatt Brewing Company Ltd., Molson Coors Canada and Sleeman Breweries Ltd., who jointly operate the Beer Store. # Avening Hall is first stop on Buck 65 tour

by Trina Berlo

Avening Hall will be the first stop on a Buck 65 tour in promotion of the new album Neverlove, to be released Sept. 30.

Buck 65 is Rich Terfry, Canadian east coaster, rapper and CBC Radio 2 host.

Terfry is playing Avening Oct. 4 as part of the Small Halls Festival before embarking on a two-month tour. From Avening, he is heading to Australia, Paris and the United Kingdom before continuing across Canada.

Terfry has a unique rap style, sometimes crude, sometimes sentimental, ranging in style from urban hip hop to spoken word.

The musician grew up in Mount Uniacke, Nova Scotia.

“Through the years, I played some of my most memorable shows in small town halls. Small towns need places where people can come together, meet, share ideas and experiences... I know that where I grew up, we only had one such place. Without it, you could hardly have called us a community,” Terfry told The Echo.

He said his first exposure to hip hop was on television in about 1980.

“I was hooked right away. In the next few years, I heard a lot of it at the roller skating rink where I spent most of my weekends,” said Terfry.

He said his babysitter’s boyfriend was the DJ at the rink, 30 minutes from his home, and taught him about records.

“Growing up in a small rural place, I consumed hip hop music in a different way from my friends who grew up in cities. For the most part, especially after the roller rink closed, I was listening in my bedroom. I was analyzing it. I wasn’t dancing to it in clubs. It wasn’t part of a social activity. For that reason, I think I interpreted the music in a different way. And I gravitated to different aspects of the music. I didn’t know what the singles or hits were and I didn’t care. I was drawn to the songs that challenged my imagination most. I was drawn to the weird and dark songs. I liked the weird songs. They made me feel like less of a weirdo myself. So I went I started making music, I wasn’t trying to be different. I was trying to make music the way I had been hearing it all along. My take on things was skewed and I had no idea. I’m grateful for that.”

Being the only hip hop fan among his friends, Terfry said he felt a bit lonely. He said he eventually found a community through music and online.

Terfry said it wasn’t until he left his hometown and moved to the city – Halifax and later Paris – that he started writing about his rural roots.

“I didn’t realize how much of an influence it was on me until I started living in the city,” he said.

The new Buck 65 album Neverlove is an album about divorce, penned after his wife left him three years ago.

“I’ve come a long way. But I still have bad dreams sometimes. I still wonder if I’m really ready to move on sometimes. I’ve made a few feeble and failed attempts at relationships in the last few years. In some ways, I figure I’ll never really be the same. But I also hope that I’m stronger and smarter and better than ever,” said Terfry.

Out of the cathartic album comes Super Pretty Naughty, a light-hearted dance song.

Terfry said it is the silliest, happiest song he could possibly write.

“I was really at rock bottom when I wrote this one and when you are at rock bottom something’s gotta give. So what choice do you have? Either you just start to switch off the lights altogether or you start to say okay, I gotta turn this thing around,” Terfry says during an online narrated tour of the album. “You just gotta look in the mirror and try to figure out a way to smile again after not laughing for a very, very long time. It’s something that I needed to do and I gotta tell you, it felt good.”

He said the song almost didn’t make it onto the new album but it has been well received and now he is glad it was included.

Meet the candidates running for council in Mulmur Township

Paul Mills

Heather Hayes

Earl Hawkins

Lynn Hilchey

Paul Mills - Mayor (acclaimed)

Paul Mills moved to a farm in Mulmur with his wife Linda 22 years ago in order to establish a collection facility for his cattle export company, Canadian Holsteins.

Mills has had deep-seeded roots in the agriculture industry ever since the big city teen came to the area for a summer job in 1963.

He loved the lifestyle of farming and its offshoot industries, beginning his career as Herdsman at Glenafton Farms.

Mills was marketing director for one of Canada's first embryo transplant facilities, ViaPax Inc., a division of world renowned Rowntree Farms of Brampton. He moved on to their cattle export division and eventually started his own export business in the late 80s. He has fitted, shown and exported prize Canadian dairy cattle throughout Canada, the United States, Central and South America, and Europe.

Mills has coached hockey and ball teams, was a director and president of Honeywood Minor Hockey, and a Dufferin County 4H leader for several years.

He was elected to council in 2003. His first run for mayor in 2006 resulted in an historic one-vote loss. He was elected mayor in 2010.

The subsequent 2010 vote resulted in his being elected Mayor.

Mulmur now has a Code of Conduct for Council, appointed its first integrity Commissioner, has implemented both a Strategic Plan and a 10-year Financial Plan, promoted accountability and transparency by reducing the number of in-camera sessions by nearly 50 per cent, and greatly increased ratepayer involvement.

Heather Hayes - Deputy Mayor (acclaimed)

Heather Hayes is a volunteer, advocate, wife, mother and councillor for Mulmur Township. She has been active in her community since the 1990s, serving on boards and committees such as the Shelburne Library and North Dufferin Community Centre. She is an enthusiastic contributor to Wellies to Wishes, a unique fundraising event in support of the Dufferin Children's Fund.

As a councillor, Hayes has deepened her knowledge of local and regional communities. She strives to be well informed and fair in her actions, and considers the interests of all the people who live and work in the community. Over the past four years, Hayes has learned the value of patience, preparation and analysis in overcoming challenges and reaching goals.

Guided by Mulmur's Official Plan and Strategic Plan, she believes council can build on its strengths and grow in the right directions. Pressing local concerns include increased traffic on Airport Road and recreational use of paved roads and unassumed roadways within Mulmur.

Mulmur Township's small, rural population needs a strong voice to be heard by the county, the province and business interests, professional leaders who can work with a range of people and organizations toward immediate goals and those of the future. Hayes looks forward to providing strong, effective and professional leadership as council moves into a new term.

Earl Hawkins - Councillor

Earl Hawkins is a lifetime Mulmur resident. He and his wife Rhonda operate a beef farm west of Mansfield. They have four children and three grandchildren.

Hawkins believes council's first priority should always be to protect and safeguard the rights and freedoms of Mulmur residents, and he will continue to strive toward that goal. Issues should be discussed and debated with cool and concise heads, and council must proceed with the best solution that will be fair and just to the majority of the people of Mulmur.

With 15 years of council experience, and extensive committee memberships, Hawkins shows his dedication and loyalty to the residents of Mulmur.

Hawkins' excellent working relationship and endorsement from acclaimed Mayor Paul Mills will enable Mulmur council to work effectively as a team to resolve current and future issues.

Lynn Hilchey - Councillor

For more than 20 years Lynn Hilchey has been a registered Ontario beef farmer and bookkeeper for the Toronto District School Board.

She is also part of the consulting team for Sustain Ontario, the Alliance for Healthy Food and Farming and Producer for Ontario Fresh, Growing the Business of Local Food.

Hilchey is dedicated to the development of the Mulmur community as a place to live, work and enjoy its amenities while preserving its unique rural character.

She is dedicated to the courteous delivery of quality services to the Mulmur community and will preserve and protect the environment in a manner within the municipality's means.

Hilchey will strive to provide the Mulmur community with access to social, educational, recreational and health services that, when appropriately utilized will be conducive to the enhancement of quality living.

She hopes to join employees and representatives in performing duties in the best interest of our public with responsibility and fairness and with partiality towards none.

Keith Lowry

Keith Lowry - Councillor

Keith Lowry believes in Mulmur. He is running for council to invest his passion, skills and ideas to benefit the township.

Lowry and his wife put down roots in Mulmur because of the natural beauty of the township and because it is home to welcoming people with the same values about the land, heritage and teamwork.

Lowry believes people need to work together to build the thriving future that is in the Strategic Plan and to protect and preserve the rural character that is a vital element in Mulmur's past and future.

Lowry has proposed three focuses for his work as a member of Mulmur council; maintaining basic services, anticipating hot spots and encouraging fresh ideas.

His experiences as a CAF officer, an educator, and a management consultant provide him with an array of skills to bring to the role of councillor. He believes success comes by investing skills, passion and knowledge towards a common, defined goal.

Trustee to represent Clearview and Collingwood

Annie Chandler

Annie Chandler grew up on a farm in Clearview where she attended Duntroon Central Public School and Collingwood Collegiate Institute. She recently retired from CCI after 28 years in education, working with students and parents in the areas of English, drama and law. In her final years she served as chair of the guidance department where her awareness heightened even more around issues concerning student wellbeing and positive school cultures.

Chandler is a strong advocate for rural schools realizing their importance to a community. She believes that funding should be provided for continual upgrades to our aging schools and will work closely with communities to ensure this.

She supports continued funding for special education and speciality programs that directly support the needs of the students in our schools.

Chandler is also interested in learning about the SCDSB budget policies and the development of the capital spending plan for this area. Tax dollars could be saved if the feasibility of revamping our current school bus system to create a cooperative sharing system with the Catholic board is investigated.

Having lived in the area all her life she has a vested interest in and a good understanding of the area's needs and diversities.

FRED'S FUNNIES

A policeman brought four boys before a judge. "They were causing an awful lot of commotion at the zoo, your Honor," he said. "Boys," said the judge sternly, "I never like to hear reports of juvenile delinquency. Now I want each of you to tell me your name and what you were doing wrong." "My name is George," said the first boy, "and I threw peanuts into the elephant pen." "My name is Pete," said the second boy, "and I threw peanuts into the elephant pen." "My name is Mike," said the third boy, "and I threw peanuts into the elephant pen." "My name is Peanuts," said the fourth boy.

Big Heart Seniors

Welcome back Barb Pilon after a brief absence.

Also welcome to Edith Atkinson who has not been with us for some time, and we hope she will continue to enjoy our card games.

Sad to hear Effie Taylor has broken her arm, wishing her a speedy recovery.

SENIORS

Evelyn
WARDEN

We have learned that Kevin Keogh had a quadruple bypass and is currently with his daughter in London until he recovers. Our best wishes and hope he is back with us soon.

On Saturday, Oct. 4, the Christ Church Batteau will present a roast beef dinner with sittings at 5 p.m. and 6:30 p.m. and the same evening the United Church in Creemore will also present a roast beef dinner at 5 p.m. to 7 p.m.

Seventeen members enjoyed our monthly potluck. Our next trip to Rama will be Oct. 7, please call Irma Flack 705-466-5205 or Evelyn Warden 705-429-5067 and reserve a seat, we will be receiving a free lunch as a promotion.

We had 12 full tables this week and lucky draws were won by George Blakney, Pat Broad, Barb Pilon, Eileen Nash, Alinda Bishop, Bert Douglas and Flo Kerr.

There were eight moon shots played by Isabelle Gubbels, Mary Bouchard, Jim Rigney, Bert Douglas x2, George Blakney, Evelyn Warden and the travel prize to Marj Douglas.

Winners for cards were Bert Douglas, 288; Phyllis Seed, 280; Edith Atkinson, 245; Marj Douglas, 239 and low prize went to Evelyn Warden, 69.

This obituary was found in an old newspaper...I believe it to be brilliant...it reads:

Today we mourn the passing of a beloved old friend, Common Sense, who has been with us for many years. He will be remembered as having cultivated such valuable lessons as: knowing when to come in from the rain, why the early bird gets the worm, life isn't always fair and maybe it was my fault.

Common sense lived by simple, sound financial policies (don't spend more than you can earn) and reliable strategies (adults, not children are in charge). Common sense deteriorates rapidly when well-intended but overbearing regulations were set in place, as in reports of a six-year-old boy charged with sexual harassment for kissing a classmate, teens suspended from school for using mouthwash after lunch and a teacher fired for reprimanding an unruly student after this firing the students condition worsened.

The decline of common sense became more evident when you couldn't defend yourself from a burglar in your home and the burglar could sue you for assault, or when a woman failed to realize a steaming cup of coffee was hot and received a whopping settlement when she spilled a little on her lap.

Common sense death was preceded by the death of truth and trust, discretion, responsibility and reason, and is survived by I know my rights, I want it now, someone else is to blame, I am a victim and pay for doing nothing.

Remember: Seatbelts are not as confining as wheelchairs.

There were many tasty samples such as salad, muffins, loaves, cookies and Panzene's scrumptious carrot cake. ## Keep ATVs out of waterways: NVCA

The Nottawasaga Valley Conservation Authority (NVCA) is reminding all-terrain vehicle (ATV) drivers to keep out of area rivers and streams.

Last weekend near the Village of Glencairn, a group of anglers were shocked to see a number of ATVs coming down the middle of the Mad River.

The ATVs sped along the river and then climbed the bank into the Glencairn Conservation Area causing significant damage.

"There is never a good time to travel with a motorized wheeled vehicle in a waterway as fish habitat destruction is inevitable," said Byron Wesson, NVCA's director of land operations and stewardship services. "This time of year is particularly sensitive for fish as it is spawning season for Chinook salmon, brown trout and brook trout. These fish species provide important recreational fishing opportunities which contribute to our local economy."

ATV drivers caught and convicted of riding in a waterway may face fines of $15,000 to $1 million under the Federal Fisheries Act.
