Clearview councillors vow representation for all

by Trina Berlo

Four newly-elected members of Clearview council and five returning members took the oath of office in front of a tightly packed audience Monday.

Members of the 2014-2018 term of council were sworn in at the Clearview Township Administration Centre in Stavner.

One by one, elected officials were called to the podium where they gave the oath of office before signing it.

"I thank you for taking upon your shoulders and hearts the oath of public service. I pray you strength to carry its tasks of good governance forward with passion," said Rev. Tony Rennett in his blessing. "... There is one piece that without, there is no good governance. It is the citizen taking the oath upon him or herself for the wellbeing of the whole community."

Chris Vanderkruys was presented the chain of office and the gavel, inscribed with his name, to use during his term as mayor.

Members were then called to their council seats to address family, friends, staff, supporters, media and other community members.

"I am grateful to all of those who voted for me and helped to elevate me to this place realizing that my greatest service is not to them alone, but to every individual within Clearview," Clearview Township Mayor Chris Vanderkruys signs the oath of office at the inaugural meeting Monday evening at town hall in Stayner.

said Vanderkruys in his inaugural address as mayor. "The citizens of Clearview are why we are here and it is my desire to ensure that every one of them, every one of you, is treated with the utmost respect and that every request receives a response."

He said voters have made a clear decision; they want better fiscal management, more communication and to appear open for business.

"Our residents ask for many different things throughout Clearview as each ward is distinct in nature so it will take collaborative councillors to think outside the box to ensure we can meet the expectations of all the residents over the next four years," said Vanderkruys.

"Clearview is one township made up of smaller communities through amalgamation many years ago and it is time for us to work together in addressing problems that are common to us all. One Clearview means one clear view for all."

Deputy Mayor Barry Burton also spoke of teamwork.

"I feel so privileged to be a member of the team that will guide Clearview Township through the next four years," he said.

"Let me be the first to use the title in congratulating his worship Mayor Vanderkruys. We all look forward to his leadership. I want to also congratulate all the members of council on their success on being elected to represent their wards and I look forward to working with them in creating the future of Clearview."

Burton said this is a time for growth, harmonization, new ideas and vision.

Shawn Davidson thanked his family for the sacrifices they make that allow him to sit on council adding, he looks forward to serving on council as it

Christmas in the Valley happening this weekend

by Trina Berlo

Creemore kicks off the festive season with Christmas in the Valley this weekend.

Festivities begin tonight with the nnual tree lighting ceremony at Station on the Green.

From 6:20 p.m., those arriving at the event, sponsored by the Tree Society of Creemore and the Creemore and Area Residents' Association (CARA), will be treated to a carol sing before the official start at 6:30 p.m.

As in previous years, children are invited to don a festive chapeau and enter the Crazy Christmas Hat Contest, sponsored by Cardboard Castles.

The winner of the contest gets to flip the switch, lighting up the tree.

There will be carol singing throughout the evening.

In the morning, Nottawasaga and Creemore Public School will be hosting its annual breakfast with Santa from 9 a.m. until noon.

The event includes a shopping room for the children, treasure tray raffles, craft room, silent auction and a visit from Frosty the Snowman and Santa Santa is then beckoned to the staging area for the parade.

At 1:30 p.m. the big man will be ushered down Mill Street, lead by local clubs, businesses, politicians and youth.

The parade travels south on Mill Street, east on Edward Street and north of Mary Street, passing by Leisureworld Creedan Valley.

After the parade everyone is welcome to go to the Station on the Green to warm up, have hot chocolate and visit with Santa.

A parade after party is planned at the Creemore branch of the Clearview Public Library on Saturday, Dec. 6 from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m.

People are invited to head to the library for soup and free family activities.

The library is offering a number of Christmas craft tables and displays. Meet our special guests, Dana Mailhot and Ariel from Therapy Tails, and learn about their encouraging and non-judgmental reading program, which entices children to be more comfortable with the written word.

Exciting mix of experience and new energy: Paterson

Like Davidson, Robert Walker is embarking on his fourth term of council.

"We are a team that will represent the township as a team. We will go forward with the direction of this township," said Walker.

Doug Measures said he looks forward to working with the new leaders.

"I hope our council recognizes that we are here to support all of the community," he said.

Deb Bronée thanked family who travelled from outside the community to attend the inauguration and the volunteers that work within the municipality.

"We may all seem very different but in the end we all want the same thing and that is some growth, economic development and to preserve our rural roots," she said.

Thom Paterson acknowledged members of past council, especially those not returning.

"As with any new term of council, there are adjustments to be made as the new council forms and reshapes itself to reflect the wishes of the people of Clearview Township," he said.

"I believe we have a real opportunity during this term to be more than a business as usual municipality. We have an exciting mix of experience and new energy in both senior staff and council. Working together, we can challenge ourselves to find new ways to provide and improve efficient service delivery and plan our long term development and financial outlook within an ability to pay fiscal framework for the benefit of all sectors of our local economies."

Council newcomers Connie Leishman and Kevin Elwood both thanked supporters and those who encouraged them to run in the election.

"They know my passion for this township and it runs very deep," said Leishman.

Elwood specifically thanked outgoing councillor Orville Brown for his encouragement.

"I look forward to representing the residents and addressing their concerns while keeping the interests of the community, and the township as a whole, at heart," said Elwood.

Most council members took the opportunity Monday evening to thank their spouses and family members for their support.

Creemore's secret Santa is offering cash prizes for the best dressed shop windows in the downtown core.

A $100 prize will go the business with the best Christmas decorations. A $50 prize will be given for second

A second t

A second thought on Clearview council tradition

Clearview Township council broke from tradition this week.

For the first time in eight years someone other than Shawn Davidson moved the motion to adjourn.

At the Nov. 24 council meeting, the last time the former council met, Davidson moved the motion to adjourn for mayor Ken Ferguson.

Davidson said during Ferguson's two terms as mayor – unless Davidson was not at the meeting – he would move the motion.

It was something that started at the beginning of that term and developed organically into a tradition.

It could be viewed as quiet display of solidarity. At that final council meeting, Davidson ceremoniously moved the motion one last time for Ferguson. There was no mention of the tradition, just an emphasis given to the act.

Davidson said he was honoured to move that last motion to adjourn, after departing council members had said their final farewells.

Council-watchers know all about this lighthearted ritual so they were surprised when come the first meeting of this term of council, Davidson did not move the motion to adjourn.

That duty was fulfilled by new Deputy Mayor Barry Burton.

Davidson said before the meeting, council members were figuring out how the meeting would go. He suggested it be predetermined who would move and second the motion to adjourn, as no other official business was planned for the inaugural meeting.

Burton said he would move the motion.

As the story goes, people asked if Davidson would prefer to do it but he passed.

He said it's no big deal. He's right. It's not a big deal but it is a shift from the norm these past few years.

With a lot of talk about being a team, Clearview council missed an obvious team-building exercise.

In their speeches, most members talked about teamwork, a one-for-all approach.

Some also managed to put the I in team by stating an intended direction, as if to say, I may be part of this team but I am going in a certain direction with or without the rest of you.

The mayor and deputy mayor are going in a new direction in the name of change. That message says to the incumbents that, in their view, no one liked the direction they were going in anyway.

Others, particularly Robert Walker, subtly reiterated he would be staying the course.

It is not unusual for a new council to struggle to find cohesion, some never do. Unfortunately, sometimes those councils are ineffective.

Let's see how this council develops.

Smokeless doesn't mean harmless

by Dr. Lisa Simon

When it comes to tobacco, smokeless doesn't mean harmless. That's the message of Know What's In Your Mouth (knowwhatsinyourmouth.ca), a youth-developed campaign highlighting the dangers of using smokeless tobacco. Going by names like "chew", "spit", "dip", and "snuff", most types are held in the mouth for prolonged periods of time. Since the juices that form aren't meant to be swallowed, the user must spit frequently as saliva collects.

For parents, coaches, and educators, it can be a surprise to learn that smokeless tobacco use is a growing trend among youth. According to the most recent data (2011-2013) from the Ontario Student Drug Use and Health Survey, approximately 1 in 10 youth in Simcoe Muskoka use chewing tobacco.

There are several reasons youth are choosing to use chew tobacco. Products are available in flavours that appeal to young consumers, like cherry, grape and vanilla. The packaging can be very similar to candy, gum, makeup and highlighters, which are intentional strategies by the tobacco industry to make it harder for youth to recognize these as dangerous tobacco products. It is also a tobacco company strategy, following the ban of smoking in public places, to promote and sell smokeless products that can be used in these settings.

There is also a mistaken belief that chew tobacco is less harmful than smoking cigarettes. The truth is that even though it is not inhaled it directly into the lungs, it is held in the mouth, which can cause mouth, throat, and stomach cancers in as little as five years of use. Another myth is that chewing tobacco will enhance athletic performance. However, chewing tobacco can actually result in increased blood pressure and is counterproductive to better sports performance.

Clues that indicate chew tobacco is being used are: a visible lump along the lower jaw where the plug or dip is held against the gum, bad breath, yellowed teeth, or carrying a receptacle like a pop can for spitting.

A campaign toolkit is available and has been shared with coaches and educators as well as community leaders and youth, offering easy and fun ways for youth to take ownership of the message and make it their own.

For more information about chew tobacco visit knowwhatsinyourmouth.ca, and for information about other tobacco programs offered by the health unit, call Health Connection at 705-721-7520 or 1-877-721-7520, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday to Friday, connect with us on Facebook or Twitter, or visit simcoemuskokahealth.org.

Creemore area men killed in the Great War

November has come and gone and with it, Remembrance Day.

Remembering our war dead should not be confined to one day a year so take a moment to think of them from time to time. Following the stories of most of the local men who lost their lives in World War I in the Nov. 14 edition of The Creemore Echo, here are accounts of several more men.

In November, very little was known of Kenneth Louden other than he was buried in Creemore cemetery. But now I have more information.

His parents were William Louden and Sara Ann Middlebrook.

His birthdate was Aug. 8, 1893 and he lived on the Nottawasaga side of the Nottawasaga-Sunnidale Townline, south of County Road 9. Pte. Louden died of tuberculosis in the sanatorium in London, Ont.

John James McKay, born Aug. 31, 1890, died April 9, 1917.

According to the 1901 census he was living with his family on George Street in Creemore.

His father was John Alexander McKay and his mother was Elizabeth Dunsmore.

He had two brothers and three sisters. His father was the section foreman on the railway.

From other records, the family seems to have moved around quite a bit. Pte. McKay was in the Central Ontario Regiment of the Canadian Infantry, 15th Battalion.

His death certificate indicates that he died in France while doing duty as communication file between the advanced posts after the attack won Vimy

Percy Gill, in my earlier research, was very elusive but thanks to several people we now have interesting information. Pte. Gill was in the Western Ontario

Regiment of the Canadian Infantry, 1st Battalion, although earlier he was in the 125th. Born Aug. 21, 1888 on the Isle of Wight, England he was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick T. Gill. The 1911 census of Nottawasaga finds Percy working as a labourer, a hired hand for Thomas Porter.

This farm was at Banda on the Nottawasaga-Mulmur Townline.

Interestingly, two farms away, was James Gill who, as records indicate, was not a brother. Pte. Gill, who enlisted in Brantford, Ont., was killed April 9, 1917 in France.

Pte. George Butler, a Negro, who was born in Lucan, Ont., on April 2, 1897, somehow found his way to this area and was the adopted son of Duncan and Helen McGregor, who lived on a farm south of Duntroon.

When he enlisted in Collingwood in January 1917 he was working on John Duggan's farm, north of Creemore.

He was in the Canadian Infantry, Central Ontario Regiment, 4th Battalion and was killed in France on Feb. 14, 1918.

His death certificate states he died of shrapnel wounds at No. 6 Casualty Clearing Station.

Percy Gill

Unlike Percy Gill, John James McKay and George Butler, Alexander MacKay had deep roots in this area. Although records often spell his name as MacKay, the family in this area spelled it as Mackay.

Alexander Mackay was born in Creemore on Aug. 3, 1869 to Josh Mackay and Eliza McArthur, who came from a line of pioneer farmers. His father had an interesting career

According to census reports, in 1871 he was a merchant, in 1881 an accountant, in 1891 a real estate agent and in 1901 he was an undertaker.

By 1891, Alexander was a medical student in Toronto.

He married some time in the 1890s to Minnie Dick of Maple Valley. He served in the war as a physician and rose to the rank of lieutenant colonel.

In Toronto, he was chief medical officer for Toronto schools, chairman of the Toronto School Board and an inspector of provincial hospitals.

He died in Toronto in February 1923, the cause given as the flu and cystitis. He is buried in Creemore cemetery.

My thanks go out to Carolyn Wilson of Collingwood, Howard and Garry Milne of Duntroon, Paul Woolner of Ottawa, Donald McArthur of Wasaga Beach, Catherine McArthur Harper and Earl Bonner of Mississauga, John Thomson of Mulmur, Mary Thomson Redekop of London and locally to John Boake, June Reed, Maurice McArthur, John Montgomery, Glenda and Rita at the library, The Creemore Echo staff and the late Sylvia Gale who in her writing mentioned the Loudens.

Most especially, thanks to David Bruce Johnson, whose encouragement sent me off on this interesting project.

Small Halls Festival memo of understanding in the works

A memorandum of understanding is in the works for next year's Small Halls Festival to alleviate some of the growing pains of the inaugural event.

Clearview Township community culture and recreation coordinator Shane Sargant said the festival held Oct. 2-5, included more than 50 events at nine venues across the township with the help of about 250 volunteers who put in 2,000 "people power hours".

He said hall volunteers really got on board and came forward with many ideas for events that weekend.

"It was hard to say no and so we just let them do their thing," said Sargant.

The festival aimed to renew interest in Clearview's newly renovated community managed halls and Sargant said that goal was achieved.

He said there were mistakes made because some people working on the festival were new to Clearview.

"There were growing pain," said Sargant, adding he is working on the memorandum of understanding and a communications plan for next year's event.

He said there was some "post event syndrome" but in the end, all hall boards agreed to be involved again next year.

Sargant said not all the numbers are in yet but in the end he expects the festival would have had $142,700 in revenue and $142,000 was spent on the event.

Old Creemore reservoir decommissioned

An abandoned water reservoir near Creemore has been taken care of.

The original water system for Creemore consisted of a spring fed reservoir south of the village. This system was abandoned 1992-1993 but it was not decommissioned, reported general manager of environmental services Mike Rawn on Nov. 24. Per council's direction, the system has been decommissioned. In order to facilitate reservoir demolition, the spring feed was shut down. Township water department staff capped the pipe at the springs, and also at each location where the pipe crossed municipal road allowances. The reservoir was demolished in accordance with Niagara Escarpment Commission and Clearview building department permits.

The project came in at less than the budgeted value of $100,000. The tender was awarded to the lowest bidder, Nic and Andy's Pipe Service, in the amount of $33,529.36.

Clearview Township sees another reduction in transfer payment grant

Clearview Township has been informed that it will receive $1 million in provincial grant money, considerably less than in previous years.

The money is paid to municipalities in the province annually through the Ontario Municipal Partnership Fund (OMPF), the province's main transfer payment to municipalities.

In 2012, the government announced the review of the OMPF and the phase-down of the program to $500 million by 2016.

In 2015, Clearview is promised $1,006,500, down from $1,189,500 in 2014 and $1,384,700 in 2013. Clearview's allocation culminated with a $1,521,600 OMPF pay out in 2012.

Clearview Township would have to impose a tax increase of 1.54 per cent to make up for the shortfall to maintain service levels, reported treasurer Edward Henley on Nov. 24. Considering the funding reduction since 2013, that translates to a 4.3 per cent tax increase.

The reduction in OMPF grants was a result of a 2008 agreement to upload social assistance benefit programs and court security and prisoner transportation costs.

Municipal officials say the uploads benefit the county, which delivers those services, while the reductions seriously impact the lower tier municipalities.

With the uploads totaling $5,600, Clearview Township will receive a total of $1,012,100.

In 2015, according to the provincial minister of finance, the province will provide a total of $515 million in unconditional funding to 388 municipalities through the OMPF. Combined with the municipal benefit resulting from the provincial uploads, the funds will total over $2.2 billion in 2015.

Mulmur council has high hopes for coming term

by Trina Berlo

It was all smiles as Mulmur Township council members were sworn in Wednesday morning.

Council member Earl Hawkins returned to his seat along with Mayor Paul Mills and Deputy Mayor Heather Hayes, both acclaimed. New to the table are Keith Lowry and Janet Horner.

Members took the oath and signed official documents after being piped into the council chambers at town hall in Terra Nova by township treasurer Heather Boston.

Elected officials expressed enthusiasm and hope for the coming four-year term.

"We're going to have some real challenges in the next four years but the main thing is that we move Mulmur forward," said Mills.

Hayes said she is looking forward to working with a great group of councillors.

"I'm looking forward to building Mulmur up," she said adding, she looks forward to doing business "without tears and without curling up in the fetal position".

She agreed there would be challenges but it will be challenges with issues and not challenges with personalities.

Lowry said he is looking forward to working as a team over the next four years, advocating for responsible growth in and for Mulmur.

"I may not always agree but I will always listen and work to find the best resolution available," he said.

"We are going to do what's right for all the people in Mulmur and not just some," said Horner.

Hawkins welcomed new council members and complimented township staff.

"We won't always agree certainly not, and we shouldn't. That's a yes man's council. So speak up and at the end of the meeting; go away happy. Don't go away angry," he said.

"I am looking forward to the next four years... I think they're going to be good," said Hawkins, hesitantly choosing his words. "I didn't offend anybody."

Several councillors' comments alluded to the particularly dysfunctional term of council resulting in police charges and legal battles.

Mills told the gallery of onlookers, "This is your council for 2014-1018, any input or suggestions, bring it on."

Council members also thanked family members for their support and thanked voters for their trust.

Franklin took the opportunity, when the mayor invited members of the public to speak, to say council cannot be a collective of nostalgia.

"We cannot live in the past and the present is so brief and transitory. We are only left with the future," said Franklin.

He said thoughtful negotiation and compromise are needed to satisfy the needs of the community.

A touch of Majengo coming to Dunedin

by Trina Berlo

The annual holiday party to benefit Majengo Children's Home in Africa will be held on Sunday, Dec. 14.

The biannual fundraiser is organized by Lynn Connell and held at her Dunedin art retreat.

Majengo is an orphanage in Tanzania. It is locally run and supported by a network of donors.

Connell was teaching painting in Africa in 2007 when she was taken to visit a makeshift daycare and saw 52 starving children huddled together on a mud floor. With cofounder Charles Luoga, an HIV/AIDS project coordinator, she made a commitment to help those children.

Connell spread the word throughout the Creemore community and $23,000 was raised, enough to see the orphanage's door open the following year.

Connell said many people in the Creemore area have supported the children's home since it was founded in 2007.

"It's been going for seven years and it's pretty magical. It just keeps going," said Connell.

The organization cares for 165 kids, 84 of whom are residents at a new home constructed on 10 acres of land donated by the local government.

The others benefit from programs that provide basic needs.

Children at the Majengo Children's Home, an orphanage in Tanzania, Africa co-founded by Dunedin resident Lynn Connell, plant grass as part of a project to improve air quality.

The children are cared for by a staff of 20 local people and the organization is managed by an NGO set up in Tanzania.

"It's all local. Our whole thing is to support them in their own culture and not to go over there and tell them what to do," said Connell.

She said the event is to raise money for basic needs of the children such as education, medical, clothing, sports, accommodation and staffing.

Toronto chef Lyndon Wiebe will be preparing an African inspired meal.

His sister is in Tanzania and, just over one year ago, Wiebe spent two weeks at the orphanage, where he collected recipes.

Simone Lee-Hamilton, who has been teaching at the school attended by the orphans, will be at the event, sharing stories.

There will also be live music by guitarist Cody McMillan.

The event takes place at Lynn's

Creativity Art Retreat inn Dunedin, located at 8961 County Road 9, from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. There is no set fee for admission.

Donations are encouraged. All donations are tax deductible.

Everyone is welcome.

Anyone not able to attend the event but would like to support the project is welcome to donate online at www.majengo.org or send a cheque payable to Majengo Canada to 284 Major Street, Toronto, M5S 2L6.

Infinity gymnasts make good showing at provincial qualifier

Infinity Gymnastics Centre in Utopia was in fine form over the weekend. Orangeville played host to a provincial qualifying meet for women's artistic gymnastics and the area's newest gymnastics club delivered.

The meet had over 250 athletes from all across the province competing in a range of levels and ages.

The girls were all smiles after the meet and for good cause.

Some notable performances (from top centre, left to right) Hailey Kohler 3rd on vault, 3rd all around, Hannah Carpentier 6th bars, 8th all around, Savanna Inman 1st on vault, 2nd all around, Kayla Lolli 4th on beam, 6th on floor, Sadie Finkelstein 3rd on bars, 3rd all around, Teaghen Couling 1st on vault, 2nd on floor, Emily Wickett 1st on vault, 1st on bars, Samantha Carrier 4th on floor, 5th all around, Karli Stevenson 2nd on vault, 2nd all around.

"It's their first competition under Infinity Gymnastics and they performed very well, for some this is their first provincial competition ever, we're really happy with the outcome," said head coach Michelle Pothier.

The team will go on to compete in Muskoka and Alliston later in the season with hopes that their scores qualify them to provincial championships in the spring.

Siskins go from three-game shutout to 10 goals against

by Alex Hargrave

Upsets were the name of the game last week in the Georgian Bay Mid Ontario Junior C Hockey League. The top three teams in the league lost to lower ranking clubs, which is psychologically uplifting to the weaker clubs as anyone could win this thing.

Penetang Kings, 14-8-1-1, continued their dismal play losing at home to the Stayner Siskins, 7-5, Friday night, and although that doesn't count as an upset the 4-2 loss to Fergus Sunday does. The loss is their seventh in the past eight games. Fergus is a .500 hockey team.

Alliston Hornets' 6-4 loss to Orillia Sunday was definitely an upset. The loss is only Alliston's third this season. Meanwhile, Orillia has been on the losing side 13 times and on 10 occasions victorious.

The Siskins suffered a defeat the night before in front of a home crowd when Huntsville Otters knocked them off with a 5-4 overtime victory.

The Huntsville loss could be expected considering the Otters are in fourth place with an above .500 winning record at 13-10-0.

Alliston leads the league with a 19-3-1 record followed by Stayner, 15-5-2-1, who finally slipped by Penetang for second spot overall.

Said Siskins general manager Richard Gauthier still fuming days after the loss, "You know we talked about no goals in three games then we get 10 against in two.

After three consecutive shutouts, Siskins netminder Trevor Bloch's lucky stick went missing against Huntsville following a first period, which Stayner held a 1-0 lead on a goal by Cooper Martin, his ninth of the year. In the second period, Stayner's team play went flat, Bloch's shutout evaporated when Huntsville tallied two times.

In the third period, the score went back and forth ending at 4-4.

Scoring Stayner goals were Ricky Darrell with two and Ben Lougheed.

Siskins sniper Sean Healy, who Gauthier called more of a "dart hacker", hit the goalie on a penalty shot in the overtime period.

Gauthier was upset that Healy didn't score, missing the opportunity to win the game.

Huntsville out-gunned Stayner in the shootout 1-0 to take the two points.

All the same, Stayner did earn one point for the overtime loss.

"Huntsville is a better hockey club (than earlier in the season)," he added. "Their goalie kept them in the game and made some big saves. Ours was average again."

Head coach Steve Walker elected to put Xavier Portelance in between the pipes in the Penetang game after Bloch's sizzling streak cooled.

After not seeing much ice time in the past several weeks, Portelance skills were icy in the early going.

Penetang led 4-1 early in the second period when the Siskins awoke and stormed back with two even strength goals, two power play markers and one shorthanded tally to give Stayner a 6-3 lead.

Penetang added another goal and Trevor Franklin hit the empty net to close the game out.

"It showed character coming back after being down 4-1," Gauthier managed to express.

Stayner was away last Wednesday night playing the last place Midland Flyers and were home to Orillia Thursday night.

A small gift can make a big difference.

Donation of non-perishable food, money, gifts and gift cards are being received at The Echo's office to help people in our community. All donations go the Clearview Stayner Food Bank or Hope Acres Salvation Army. We will be collecting items during our office hours until Monday, December 22.

Creemore water reservoir slated for improvements

The 2015 Clearview Township budget will have $57,500 included to make improvements to the Creemore Water reservoir as per the recommendations given in the Landmark report.

The Collingwood Street reservoir was inspected by Burlington based Landmark Municipal Services in September.

The water department inspects all water reservoirs on a monthly basis. Once every three years the reservoirs are cleaned and a more thorough inspection takes place.

Due to concerns noted from inspections, a professional inspection was deemed necessary.

Landmark was hired to inspect, analyze, and report on the condition of the Creemore water reservoir.

Clearview general manager of Environmental Services Mike Rawn reported Nov. 24, the reservoir requires some investment to prolong its life.

A roof membrane will prevent spalling from freeze/thaw cycling.

The cracks in the wall need to be sealed to protect the reinforcing steel.

Without investment, the reservoir life span will be shortened and the potential for contaminates entering will increase.

I once had someone very special That money cannot buy. I had a very special love And had to say goodbye. My memories and photos And pictures in their frames Are all I have to see and touch Of a very special person Whom I love and miss so much. And when I'm feeling lonely And tears fill my eyes I think of you at peace And I know I shouldn't cry. So I hide my heartache As you would want me to And when I cry my tears alone No one hears but you.

Hospital changes parking fees, first 30 minutes free

Parking at Collingwood General and Marine Hospital is now free for the first 30 minutes.

The change, effective Dec. 1, is in response to community feedback, said hospital officials.

Replacing a set rate of $7 per day, the hospital is moving to an hourly rate of $3 to a maximum daily rate of $10, good for 24 hours and includes in and out privileges.

For frequent visitors, weekly passes will be available for $35 and monthly passes for $60.

When the new system is in place, parking tokens will no longer be in circulation or available. The new system provides patients and visitors with a time stamped ticket as they enter the parking lot. When leaving the hospital there will be payment terminals at the front of the hospital and one in the corner of the parking lot. Patients and visitors must enter their ticket into the machine and pay for the allotted time used, and insert this paid ticket at the gate to exit the lot.

Additional changes include the addition of five new parking spots with a 10-minute time limit for dropping off and picking up passengers, to address concerns over vehicles blocking the fire route.

The hospital has also expanded the number of accessible parking spaces within the front lot and has changed the main parking lot entrance location from Moberly Street to the laneway off of Hume Street.

The Ministry of Health does not provide funds for any costs associated with parking.
